OUTLINING DESTRUCTION OF ALL AXIS

Japan Placed High on List as Prime Minister Makes Surprise Visit.

COMES TO WHITE HOUSE

Secrecy Surrounds Discussion of Joint Allied Plans For Global Strategy.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Roosevelt today created a joint American-British war council which will have its first meeting in the White House cabinet room at 5 o'clock EST. this afternoon. It will be composed of Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, and members of the American military and naval high command.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill put their heads together today on a unified "victory program" for the destruction of the Axis—and Japan had high priority.

Even before the capital recovered from its surprise at Churchill's dramatic arrival, the conversations were under way and the White House had become, for the present, the GHQ for the worldwide battle against totalitarianism.

The British prime minister reached the executive mansion early enough last night for President Roosevelt to have the whole evening with him, and their preliminary exchange of views continued today.

The questions before them were momentous — global strategy for synchronized Allied action, the creation of a supreme Allied high command to coordinate the operations, and the matter of a full formal alliance of all Axis forces—but the war in the Pacific seemed the top immediate consideration.

And Churchill's arrival struck the capital as a good omen, for it coincided with encouraging news from the Pacific theatre. The Philippines reported the situation "well in hand" there, despite an all-out Japanese invasion on its island. The British lines above vital Singapore were holding firm.

2 FROM AREA ON MISSING LIST

Galion and Bucyrus Youths Unreported Since Japanese Attack on Hawaii.

Two youths from the Richland county area stationed with armed forces in the Pacific were reported "missing in action" today in telegrams received by their parents.

Government authorities notified their relatives that neither has been located since the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, Dec. 7.

Missing are Frederick Sulser, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sulser, Galion, and James Howard Lett, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lett, Bucyrus.

Young Sulser was last reported aboard the U.S.S. Arizona which Secretary of Navy Frank Knox said had been sunk by Jap aerial bombs at Pearl Harbor.

Lett was a water tender in the Navy. The name of the ship on which he was supposedly aboard was not given. His parents, however, said they last heard from him from Pearl Harbor.

Lett enlisted in the Navy Oct. 27, 1939 for two years, renewing his enlistment only two months ago.

He is survived by his parents and two brothers, Ralph and Ray, both at home.

Sulser, who enlisted in 1938 would have completed his enlistment in March. His parents last heard from him three weeks ago and had been expecting him home for Christmas until Japan declared war.

Auto In Which Pair Rode Went Through Mansfield on Wild Ride.

An escaped inmate of the Lima State hospital for criminal insane who is believed to have fled through Mansfield Sunday night or Monday morning was captured in Mt. Vernon yesterday after wrecking a car reported stolen in Bucyrus.

The fugitive, taken into custody by State Highway Patrolman C. E. Lovejoy, admitted he was Ralph Ulrey, 27, who escaped from the Lima institution early Sunday with another inmate.

Patrolman Lovejoy said he saw the car and followed it after receiving a report that an automobile driven by an apparently intoxicated man was approaching Mt. Vernon over state route 15 from the direction of Mansfield.

The patrolman gave chase and caught up with the fugitive when the stolen car crashed into the porch of a residence. He first told Lovejoy he was "Joe Smith of Columbus," but later admitted true identity.

Ulrey escaped with Ivan Phillips, 33, serving a term for a Cincinnati robbery, when the pair overpowered an attendant at the state hospital, locked him in a room, and then took his keys.

Then they tied up another attendant, took some razors from him, and forced a night watchman to accompany them to the courtyard where they used ladders to scale the 40-foot wall.

Phillips, serving a life sentence for a $30,000 bank robbery, is still at large.

Ulrey was transferred to the state hospital from Ohio penitentiary where he was serving a one-to-35-year sentence from Columbus on a breaking and entering and morals charges. Phillips also had been transferred from Ohio penitentiary.

Reports on Survey of 'Bloody Six' Accidents

A state highway department traffic survey revealed today that drinking drivers were involved in one-third of the accidents on the "bloody six miles" of U. S. route 42 northeast of Mansfield during the first 10 months of this year. Nine persons have been killed this year on the stretch of road.

The statistics showed that the average of drinking drivers on the section of highway northeastward from Mansfield to the Ashland county line was much higher than the state average of 19 per cent.

The survey was conducted at the request of Highway Director Hal G. Spaul after County Prosecutor Harold Lutz asked the state highway department to reduce the three-lane route to two lanes in a move to reduce the traffic hazard.

In reply to the prosecutor's proposal for two-lane traffic, Spaul said that such marking over long stretches of highway without permitting passing would cause traffic jams. He offered no suggestion for the prevention of fatalities on the "bloody six" pending further study of the statistics.

"It looks like more policing on that section of the road might help," Lutz commented today after hearing of the survey. "The highway department will have to cooperate with the state highway patrol in carrying out the job, though," he said.

"Our own accident figures here prove that not all the accidents on that section of route 42 are due to drinking drivers, because other narrower routes with almost as much traffic have had no fatal crashes this year," Lutz added.

Bombing and Attack Planes Aid Invasion

U. S., Filipino Troops Gain Initial Successes In Major Philippine Battle; Sharp Fighting Still Rages North of Manila.

BULLETIN
MANILA—(AP)—Heavy casualties resulted this afternoon when three Japanese planes bombed a center which had been reserved for persons evacuated from Manila and other towns.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—The war department reported today Japanese were continuing to pour in troops on the Lingayen gulf coast north of Manila in the Philippines.

Fighting was continuing with "increasing intensity," it said.

A communique said the invader's landing operations were "being supported by increasing numbers of bombing and attack planes."

Defending American and Philippine troops gained some initial successes, it was reported, in a major engagement fought in the vicinity of Santo Tomas, in the Lingayen gulf some 120 air miles from Manila.

The Japanese invasion onslaught has centered in the area around Santo Tomas, other landings having been made or attempted previously at nearby Agoo and Damortis.

The text of the war department's communique No. 24, outlining the military situation as of 9:30 a. m. EST (10:30 p. m. Manila time) today:

"1. Philippine theater: Combat operations are continuing with increasing intensity along the eastern shore of Lingayen gulf, north of Damortis. A major engagement is being fought in the vicinity of Santo Tomas where defending American Philippine troops have attained some initial successes.

"Japanese troops are continuing to land between Agoo and San Fernando. Landing operations are being supported by increasing numbers of bombing and attack planes.

"There were air raids of a minor character over other portions of Luzon.

"Fighting is continuing in the vicinity of Davao on the island of Mindanao.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

Hongkong Defenders Beat Japs Back In Fierce Fight

BULLETIN
OTTAWA, Ont.—(AP)—Canadian and other British troops are stubbornly holding three positions at Hongkong but the Canadians have suffered heavy casualties and their commander, Brigadier J. L. Lawson, is believed to have been killed, Canadian defense headquarters announced today.

(By Associated Press)
LONDON—Despite repeated Japanese assertions that Hongkong is on the verge of capture, Britain's flag still flew today over its resolute defenders who apparently had even smashed back their far more numerous foes and regained some positions.

As the stubborn fight went on—against hopeless odds, it was conceded here—a British authority declared that the island's recapture "would be essential to our future plans" if it fell to the Japanese.

The invaders now have had four full days to wrest the last, 32-square-mile bit of territory of Britain's Hongkong crown colony. They first won a foothold on its shores Friday night, aided by naval siege and heavy air and artillery bombardment.

Reports from the Far East, however, indicated that the crown colony's garrison of British, Canadian, Indian and other imperial troops still was holding a firm defense line and, at some points, even pushing the invaders back.

The Japanese apparently were in command of the eastern portions of the island and the main British stronghold was said to be in the west, the region of "The Peak," the towering heights along the Hongkong ridge overlooking Victoria, the capital city.

Direct word from Hongkong said fighting "continues all along the lines held yesterday." This fragmentary report mentioned one successful, local counter-blow by holding a firm defense line and, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Assailant Uses Table Lamp In Brutal Slaying at Cincinnati.

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI — A man registered as George Winlock, of Canton and identified by police as a 44-year-old sales reduction engineer, was found beaten to death in his room at the Hotel Gibson today.

Police Sergeant Higdon Roberts said, "It's the worst case of inept I ever saw." A table lamp apparently had been used as a club to fracture Winlock's skull and knock several teeth from his mouth.

Winlock's watch had stopped at 3:25 a. m. The blood-spattered room indicated there had been a "terrific struggle," Roberts said.

Herman Reardon of Canton, an associate of Winlock, told police the slaying victim had been here since early this month and had been engaged with him in steel reclamation work at the Andrews Steel company in nearby Newport, Ky.

Reardon said they had had dinner together last night; that he had left Winlock in the lobby of the hotel about 9:30 p. m. to retire to his own room.

Hotel officials said there was a "noisy party" in rooms adjoining Winlock's between 3 and 4 a. m. Police questioned party guests who professed not to have heard anything untoward from Winlock's quarters. Winlock's wallet was missing. The body was clad only in an undershirt when found by a bellboy.

Bricker Orders Lengthened Week For Women Workers.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Longer hours for women working in Ohio defense industries were authorized today by the state industrial commission on order of Governor Bricker to speed up Ohio's all-out war program.

In his announcement, the governor pointed out that administrative officials have no authority to relax the statutes, but that the industrial department has authority to authorize a period of "non-application" of the laws.

Nazis Suffer Reverses On Russian, Libyan Fronts

(By Associated Press)
Sharp new reverses jarred Adolf Hitler's invasion armies on two fronts today—in Russia and North Africa—as the world speculated on the possibility of a sudden berserk thrust by the Fuehrer in an attempt to retrieve his tattered military fortunes.

European observers predicted that Hitler, in his new role as supreme war lord of the German armies, would soon try to open a new front in regions less hostile to blitzkrieg campaigning than winter-frozen Russia.

Turkey and the Middle East, Spain, Gibraltar, French Africa and the British Isles appeared the likeliest targets of attack.

A Soviet broadcast said that German-dominated Bulgaria was speeding war preparations along the Turkish frontier and that announcement of Bulgarian mobilization was expected shortly.

The broadcast said the Bulgarian port of Varna and the Rumanian port of Constanta on the Black sea were in complete German control—evidently ready to serve as bases for some new German thrust.

Powerful German forces have repeatedly been reported massing in Bulgaria in recent months. Berlin and Rome hinted that important military developments were imminent, with Nazi and Fascist commentators using the word "decisive" while Stockholm (Continued on Page 16, Col. 4)

Men Who Saw Them Give Tips On Blackouts For Mansfield

Just what would you do to make a blackout of your own home effective, if and when Mansfield starts this form or air raid precaution?

Here's a tip from four Mansfield men who know. They are Leo D. Wright, of 196 Park avenue west, Fred Gandert, 584 Garfield place, Martin Merschorff, 518 Cline avenue, and O. O. Holton, 47 West Prospect street.

These four Westinghouse employees have just returned from a business trip to Seattle, where they spent four days directly after the outbreak of the war—just at the time the city was starting its blackouts.

"Start figuring how you can accomplish an absolute blackout of one room of your home," said Merschorff, speaking for the group. "This can best be done by covering all windows and openings of the room with burlap. The room selected is usually the kitchen. Then, of course, when a blackout comes, all the rest of the lights in the home can be turned out, and since no light can emanate from the blacked-out room, an (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

MORE JAPANESE TROOPS LANDING AT LINGAYEN

U. S. and Filipino Forces Gain Initial Successes In Philippine Battle.

The communiqué said the invaders had been "very active in the air," but independent reports said that they were being hammered hard by American airmen, who were reported to have beaten off one attempted landing under the guns of Japanese destroyers.

The situation in the Davao area on Mindanao island south of Luzon, where American troops have been engaged in sharp fighting with a Japanese landing force, was still described officially as "obscure."

An army spokesman said it had not been determined exactly how many troops the Japanese had been able to land at Santo Tomas. Although the number was believed large, the spokesman said he was certain it was below Washington estimates on the number of troops involved in the invasion attempt.

The navy department in Washington said yesterday that between 80,000 and 100,000 Japanese troops were believed aboard a fleet of 80 transports which had been sighted off the Luzon coast.

The regular morning communiqué issued by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters at 8 a. m. (6 p. m. EST Monday) said according to reports available then the island's defenders were holding a position north of Damortis, on the Gulf of Lingayen, about 120 miles from Manila.

Earlier, headquarters had described the situation there as "well in hand."

The main Japanese landing apparently was effected in the vicinity of Santo Tomas, four miles north of Damortis, where the heaviest fighting was reported yesterday.

Unconfirmed reports said three of 80 Japanese transports which previously had been sighted offshore had been sunk in the Gulf of Lingayen during these landing operations, and reliable sources said it was possible that many more had been destroyed.

It still was not clear here whether the Japanese had been able to land any equipment to cope with the mechanized forces the defenders were said to be throwing against them.

Manila itself was quiet during the morning except for an uneventful air raid alarm at 10:25 a. m. 8:25 p. m. EST Monday) which lasted 25 minutes.

Army officials said later that two waves of Japanese planes had been sighted heading toward the city from the south. Their failure to reach Manila was taken as an indication that they had been intercepted by American fighters and driven off.

American pilots have been predicting that Japanese airmen trying to attack targets on Luzon would find the going increasingly tough.

"Just watch us shortly," said one American flier a few days ago. "These Japanese have been coming on in perfect formation, but we intend to break them up and give them more than they can take."

News of the situation in southern Luzon, where the Japanese effected a landing last week at Legaspi, 250 miles from Manila, was limited to an official announcement that eight Japanese planes had been shot down in air engagements during the past few days.

Report Bomber Hits Japanese Sub

(By Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO—Swift-striking United States bombing planes may have damaged or sunk the big enemy submarine which torpedoed the American tanker Emidio.

This belief was expressed by Captain Clark A. Farrow upon his arrival yesterday at Eureka, Calif., with 30 survivors of his ship.

Captain Farrow said he believed the submarine was a large Japanese undersea craft, one of several Axis submarines operating off the California coast.

He related that two American planes roared swiftly to the attack after the submarine shot at the tanker and then sent a torpedo into its stern. Each plane dropped depth charges, Captain Farrow said.

"There was a big blast and plenty of smoke when the second was dropped," he said in an interview. "That may have hit her, we figure, for we didn't see her again."

Japs Claim Complete Capture of Davao

TOKYO—(Official broadcast recorded by AP)—Japanese Imperial headquarters announced today the complete occupation of Davao at 5 p. m. Saturday by Japanese forces which had landed on Mindanao Island at dawn the same day, Domei reported.

"Enemy casualties revealed up to Sunday include 200 killed and 600 made prisoners," the announcement added.

It said that naval units cooperated closely with the landing and subsequent operations.

Even in Japanese areas, it was said, some isolated British strongpoints still are unconquered.

Meanwhile a Singapore communiqué reported that Chinese forces on the mainland attacking at the rear of the Japanese before Hongkong had reached points 27 and 40 miles from the besieged island.

If the British had to give up the colony, he said, they would carry out "complete immobilization" of everything that could be useful to the Japanese.

If Hongkong were lost, he said, the British should not hope to recapture it until the British and American navies regained control of the eastern Pacific.

"Seapower added to airpower is essential to successful operations in this area," he said.

Advices reaching London said Canadian troops on the island not only were staving off further Japanese attacks but one battalion was reported carrying the fight to the enemy rear.

Jap Planes Downed In Malaya Raid

SINGAPORE—(AP)—Two Japanese planes were shot down and two others were damaged during an attempted Japanese air raid on the Malayan stronghold of Kuala Lumpur, British military authorities declared today.

They said that in general the situation on the Malayan front remained unchanged.

The attempted Jap attack on Kuala Lumpur occurred yesterday. During the night there was a short air raid alarm at Singapore, but no bombs were dropped on this vital British Far Eastern base.

The airport at Kuala Lumpur was the target for the Japanese raiders. British fighting planes knocked two out of the air and damaged the other pair.

Officials revealed British aircraft raided the Sungei Patani airfield where the Japanese have been using as a base, but said results of this attack could not be observed because of poor visibility.

U. S. Airmen Aid Chinese Attack

HONGKONG—(AP)—Chinese forces, including volunteer American airmen, struck heavy blows at the Japanese today in an all-out effort to aid the embattled British stronghold of Hongkong.

Chinese lease-lend bombers from the United States—flown by American pilots—attacked Japanese airbases and military objectives at the nearby Japanese-occupied port of Canton.

They also were reported to have hammered Jap positions in the Kowloon and New Territories (mainland) districts of Hongkong, Chinese Admiral Chen Cheh, a liaison officer, informed International News Service of the attack by the lease-lend bombers on Canton targets.

He also stated the vanguard of the main Chinese forces swooping down on the rear Japanese lines outside Hongkong already has engaged the Japanese at the border town of Shoumehun north of Kowloon.

Admiral Chen Cheh said the main Chinese forces were due to arrive there "immediately."

Dutch Attack Japs At Davao Harbor

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies—(AP)—Dutch naval aircraft attacked Japanese ships in the Philippine harbor of Davao today, aiding United States forces battling against the invasion of Mindanao island, a Netherlands East Indies communiqué announced.

Discuss Blackouts They Saw

Four Westinghouse representatives discuss their blackout impressions, after a four-day visit to Seattle while the city was conducting its nightly air raid precautions. Left to right, above are (standing) Martin Merschorff and O. O. Holton, and (seated) Leo D. Wright and Fred C. Gandert.

"It's surprising how one light can reveal a big building. We stayed on the 12th floor of the Washington Athletic club, and when we looked out of the window on blackout nights we could see an entire building darkened except for one room at the window of that room, but sufficient light escaped to betray the height of the building."

The group, which visited aircraft plants at Seattle to observe production of auxiliary tanks for warplanes to obtain data for establishment of similar production methods at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, arrived in Seattle at 8 a. m. on Tuesday, Dec. 9. They were on a train en route to the west coast city the previous afternoon when the war broke out, and on Sunday evening they heard radio accounts of the Seattle blackout in the lounge car.

Their first actual contact with the blackout, however, came half an hour before the train arrived in Seattle when the conductor appeared in the washroom and instructed Wright, who was shaving, that he would have to turn the light out. He had to finish shaving as well as he could in the dark.

Complete blackout instructions were distributed each evening to all hotel guests.

Holton, Gandert and Merschorff came directly back to Mansfield, but Mr. and Mrs. Wright took a train from Seattle to Glendale, Calif., where they visited their son, Ensign Thomas Wright, who is assigned to destroyer duty out of San Pedro. They returned later.

The men were asked if they believed, on the basis of what they saw in Seattle, if it would be difficult to accomplish a complete blackout in Mansfield.

The answer was unanimous that this city would do a good job, and a fast one, of blacking out in event of emergencies or tests; that it might not be a complete success the first evening, but the city would rapidly learn what it should do. They asserted the most important requirement is good community spirit, and cooperation among all members of the population.

FDR, CHURCHILL MAPPING ALLIED VICTORY PLAN

Destruction of Axis Planned as Prime Minister Comes To White House.

(Continued From Page 1) ly, Hongkong fought on. And there was even a vague hint that Russia's Far Eastern forces were being placed on the ready.

Britain's prime minister, wearing the familiar nautical cap and the high-buttoned seaman's jacket, stepped from a plane late yesterday at a nearby airport and found President Roosevelt waiting for him. A presidential limousine whisked them away to the White House.

Full wartime secrecy surrounded the manner in which Churchill made his trip to the North American continent. The only information The White House vouchsafed was that the last leg was made by air. There was belief, however, that one of His Majesty's warships had carried him part of the way.

Supply Minister Lord Beaverbrook and a staff of technical experts accompanied him. While the personnel of the staff was not immediately disclosed, the presumption was that it would include an array of key British military, naval and economic officials.

There were indications almost at once that Churchill's stay might be of some duration. At Ottawa, Canada's Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King said he had been invited to Washington. The White House gave no advance details as to what schedule the conferences would follow, and there appeared a possibility that the information would be withheld because of its military character.

Axis capitals apparently were very much in the dark as to Churchill's whereabouts until he reached here.

London apparently was expecting the future to bring a tremendous German air assault upon the Mediterranean fleet and more heavy fighting in North Africa, two developments which would tend to isolate Britain even more from her Pacific outposts and make it virtually necessary that there be a joint command in that theatre which could operate independently of London controls.

Washington already has heard much conjecture on the subject of a joint command and the name of General Douglas MacArthur has been mentioned frequently as a likely choice for the supreme military post in the Pacific. MacArthur's brilliant performance to date in directing the defense of the Philippines had demonstrated his ability, and he has devoted years of study to the problems presented by a campaign of Japanese conquest in the South Pacific.

The progress of the battle for the Philippines undoubtedly will figure importantly in the new Roosevelt-Churchill conversations, and likewise reports indicating Russian military activity in Siberia at Japan's back door.

NBC's Manila representative reported last night, without disclosing the source of his information, that Marshal Klement Voroshilov had been appointed commander of Russia's Far Eastern forces—"a good indication," he said, "that Russia is seriously taking up the Far Eastern situation and intends to do something about it in the near future."

British Pleased At Strategy Talks

LONDON—(AP)—British spirits soared today at the news that Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were conferring in Washington. Prompt development of a master plan of anti-Axis strategy was forecast.

Newspaper commentators generally agreed that the second meeting of the president and the prime minister was of much greater import than the sea rendezvous in August from which developed the eight-point Atlantic charter.

The conference was disclosed at a time of speculation over Adolf Hitler's assumption of the German military command.

Field Marshal Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, whom Hitler relieved, was represented in a Berlin broadcast last night as saying he had asked for dismissal some time ago "on account of a heart ailment"—a matter not touched upon by Hitler in his announcement of the shakeup Sunday.

The broadcast quoted an order of the day by the field marshal dated Friday, Dec. 19, which said "The fuhrer will lead us to victory."

Berlin and Rome hinted that important military developments were in the offing, commentators in both capitals using the word "decisive." The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter predicted that Axis operations would be "moved from east to west."

The military expert of the official Spanish news agency Efe said Hitler's action possibly foreshadowed German developments for "defense of western Europe against a Yankee attack," an invasion thrust against England, or an attack upon Turkey, which lies between the Axis-occupied Balkans and the British-held middle east.

British observers took cognizance also of the possibility that Hitler might order an attack upon Gibraltar through Spain, hoping to neutralize this stronghold at the western end of the Mediterranean to offset reverses in Russia and provide a route for reinforcing Gen. Erwin Rommel in Libya.

Approximately 13,000 applications already have been received, the army said. Those returning to the armed forces, mostly too old for combat duty, will be employed in administrative posts, according to the army, so that younger officers presently occupied by those assignments can join combat units.

The Bill of Rights deserves being kept in mind more than one day in the year.

"Remember Pearl Harbor" served as a quickly developed adaptation of "Remember the Maine" slogan, but "Let's Go To Tokyo" seems to be an ambition of the air corps.

Expect New Hitler Thrust

HITLER'S assumption of supreme command of the German armies has already been subjected to a wide variety of interpretations, not the least tenable of which is that his maddened mind contemplates new and greater atrocities and that Spain and Portugal will be in the pathway of his next thrust.

The recent appeal of Propaganda Minister Goebbels for contributions of warm clothing for Nazi troops in Russia, and admission of the superiority of Soviet fighting forces have more the appearance of Hitler strategy than revelation of recognized weakness of the Axis war machine.

But, however lethargic Great Britain may have been in the past, there is no lack of alertness now, and whatever method of attack Hitler and his associate bandits may be formulating, the element of surprise will be lacking, even to the long deferred attempt to invade the British Isles.

Arrival of Prime Minister Churchill, Lord Beaverbrook and a British technical staff in Washington for conference with President Roosevelt and American military authorities, is recognized as the initial step in a plan to co-ordinate Allied war activities for "the defeat of Hitlerism throughout the world." This co-operation is designed to include Russia, China, the Netherlands and British dominions.

Except for the increasing weakness of Italy as an ally, and the serious reversals in Russia, it appears that Hitler and his Japanese helpers are in position to carry on the war for a long time and plans of nations aligned against him must be developed and pursued on that basis—"a long war and a hard war," as President Roosevelt warned.

The war is now being brought very close to American shores, with submarines attacking in both the Atlantic and Pacific, and West Coast cities within range of aerial bombing attacks. South America is also revealed as being honey-combed with potential Axis bases, in event the way is cleared for attack from that direction, and the Far East holds constant threat of Japanese gains through superiority of numbers and air power.

The full military power of the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China will be needed to win this war—but it MUST be won.

The Joy of Cheerful Giving

CHARITY is the essence of Christmas . . . but it is a special kind of charity. It is not philanthropy. It is not the big gift that counts at the Yuletide. It is not so much the gift that fills a need as the gift that brings happiness which gives meaning to the gay wrappings under the Christmas tree.

And in the community at large there is a broad and wholesome reflection of this kind of charity.

This year in Mansfield more than four hundred families will know the thrill of getting a gift meant not to "improve" them but to bring them joy. Some of them will be needy families adopted for the day by more fortunate families who will see that they are provided with presents and good things to eat. Others will be families receiving heaping baskets of good things for Christmas day.

Hundreds of other families, doing the adopting, and service groups preparing the baskets, will know the typical pleasure that Christmas brings to all of us—the pleasure of giving.

And the service organizations who handle the mechanics of the family-adoption and basket-distribution system know that here is a function that is more than a duty. It is an exhilaration.

Cleared through the Community Fund office with the aid of the Junior Association of Commerce and The News-Journal, Mansfield's Community Christmas aims at seeing that no one is neglected this holiday. Among the special groups sending out baskets are McVey post of the American Legion, the Volunteers of America, Salvation Army, the public schools and the Girl Scouts. Others, unheralded, are doing their share to be sure that this Christmas, if there is not peace on earth, there is at least goodwill among men.

Strikes Cannot Be Tolerated Now

DELAY in congressional action on an anti-strike bill, passed by the house but held up in the senate, has been due to belief that actual war-time conditions would bring a patriotic response from all workers, and their leaders, to such extent that production of war materials would not be further hampered by strikes.

While this has come about in a large percentage of cases, the west coast strike of welders in a large shipbuilding plant, on a purely jurisdictional issue, makes it clear that some form of compulsion is necessary in isolated cases, else defense production will continue to be retarded by occasional strikes.

Use of the army, navy or marines to maintain order or insure continuance of operation of a struck plant is a waste of the energy that should now be applied to winning the war.

Industrial production for modern warfare is as necessary as actual military service and the responsibility resting on industrial workers is as great as that of soldiers, sailors and airmen. Longer hours and use of factories 24 hours a day, seven days a week, may soon be common practice.

Intensification of war production, and the building of many new factories, arouse some fears as to the future, but such worries are met with the practical suggestion that the really important thing now is to strain every effort to win the war, because "if we don't win it without needless delay, nothing else will matter much."

President Roosevelt has expressed preference that labor and management reach a voluntary no-strike agreement—but, in the event of failure, he leaves no doubt that a course of compulsion will be followed.

Property of a California duck club is now yielding oil and members are splitting $6,000,000 in profits—so that hereafter they can bring their own duck.

It is estimated the faces carved at Mt. Rushmore, S. D., will last 10,000 years, thus giving time for later appropriation of funds to carve the busts.

FBI Ready for Speedy Round-Up

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — In recent weeks you have heard much about various divisions of government that were not ready for this war, and in weeks to come you are going to hear about one (there are others) that was. It is the department of justice, specially the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

I was in the company of a number of FBI men when the first news of the bombing of Pearl Harbor broke. Five minutes later, had I stayed where I was, I would have been alone.

Two hours later, hundreds of undesirable or questionable aliens were behind bars, confined to hotel rooms under guard, or under orders to remain in their homes with 24-hour patrols on duty to see that they obeyed those orders.

Within a week, more than 3,000 Japanese, German, Italian and other non-citizens under suspicion as possible fifth columnists had been interned without arousing more than occasional scattered squawks from nearly 5,000,000 aliens who have been living within our borders without taking out even first citizenship papers.

BEHIND all this is more than a year-old story. It goes back to the days when Supreme Court Justice Robert L. Jackson was attorney general, but it's a story that doesn't belong to any one man. The present attorney general, Francis Biddle, was under the guns when the war broke out, and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover was on deck long before Jackson.

For nearly 11 months, the FBI and its parent department of justice have been wrestling those files of 5,000,000 aliens plus a few thousand more from the citizenship list that had a question mark on the line that should have noted "good intentions."

Out of this formless mass, about two months ago, began to come dossiers that had some meaning. The FBI worked out its plan. Attorney General Biddle approved.

Before the last words were written on the initial story of the bombing of Pearl Harbor, Biddle was signing warrants for detention and the FBI, with the aid of police, was making wholesale arrests from New York to San Francisco.

THIS doesn't mean that every fifth columnist, spy, or saboteur in the United States has been arrested—not by a long shot. It doesn't mean that every one held as a suspicious alien is dangerous to the United States. Hundreds of them will be released. Many of them may prove A-1 loyalty before this war is over.

But in neither case should that detract from the job that already has been done. The job ahead may be comparatively simple as a result of it.

When someone, someday, comes to write the story of the handling of aliens in this country in World war II, the tale will be packed with some of the most interesting sidelights in the whole picture.

FOR example, although our Italian aliens add up to far more than those from any other major nation (more than 1½ times as many as any other country under the domination of Hitler), the number of "suspicious" Italians taken into custody was so small it was hardly worth noting, when compared to the 700,000 Italian aliens on the non-citizenship lists.

Then, too, there is the problem for the FBI of keeping Italians and Germans apart in concentration camps. To put them together is to invite camp free-for-alls that wouldn't end this side of bloodshed if guards didn't interfere.

At the big camp at Missoula, Mont., not long ago, one of the Italians was being sent home under an expatriation agreement. His Italian buddies gave him a big farewell party. The camp cook, an Italian, baked a huge cake. On its crowning layer were two cross colored sugar flags. One was the flag of Italy; the other, the Stars and Stripes.

'Into Thy Hands'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(To Father Bowling who, more than any other, taught me the meaning of the cross.)

THERE is a crucifix over my desk these days. It is there because I need its help. I've learned it can give that help. And never have I needed it as much as I need it now.

I'm not a "churchy" person. All too often, to my shame, I forget or ignore the noble truths I learned as a girl. But the crucifix is something I cannot forget. This is not because it is a religious emblem, but because it is the nearest and most comforting symbol of our common, human struggle. And the real.

You know how you feel about the little old shawl your mother used to wear, and how you go to it sometimes for secret comfort. Not because it has, necessarily, any mystic power in itself . . . but because it's part of your deepest need . . . tied up with all that is most real and dear in your life. Well, that's the way I feel about the cross.

It's real. It went through things that I must go through, too. It doesn't represent something that happened nearly 2000 years ago to a special person. It represents something which is happening here and now, in your and my daily experience.

For, regardless of race or creed, sooner or later we all are nailed to some cross. We trust and are betrayed. We love and lose. Though innocent, we all wear crowns of thorns.

And sooner or later we all are forced, as He was forced, to make our choice about a way of life . . . to decide, as He had to decide, whether we are willing to live or die for the faith we profess.

How strangely that brings us, today, to the decision forced upon us in this emergency. He chose to die for His Truth—He could see no other way. We, too, can see no other way than to live and die for the way of life we have chosen.

That is why I have the crucifix above my desk. Not as a religious

Lewis Displays His Antagonism Toward Labor Parley Moderator

—By DREW PEAKSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis lost no time at the labor-management conference in displaying his bitter personal grudge against Moderator Will Davis. Also, he demonstrated that he and not Phil Murray was the real boss of the CIO delegation.

At the first meeting of the conference—which organized methods of procedure—Davis, at the request of reporters covering the story, proposed that he be authorized to give the press a daily factual "fill-in."

Shaking his wavy mane, Lewis, without even a glance at Murray or the other CIO delegates, immediately objected.

"I don't think," rumbled John L. sonorously, "that extemporaneous observations and effusions by certain individuals who like to hear themselves talk will add to the success of this undertaking."

"I second that," piped up George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer, who also harbors a personal pique at Davis. Meany has secret ambitions to be a big shot in the defense labor set-up, is peeved because he hasn't been given an important position.

Note: At his White House session with the delegates, the president shook hands with each of them, including Lewis, who, with a deadpan expression, said, "How do you do, Mr. President." To which Roosevelt, also deadpan, replied, "How do you do, Mr. Lewis."

Mail Early.

"If our mailmen don't get fallen arches, I think we'll make it," says genial Postmaster General Frank Walker about the expected record volume of Christmas mail.

Postal authorities are certain it will be the biggest, by far, in history. Over 5,000,000,000 stamps of all denominations were ready for the Yuletide rush—the biggest advance booking on record, and nearly 1,500,000,000 more than last year. To handle this increase, 200,000 extra employees were hired.

Walker and his aides anticipate that Christmas postal revenue will come to well over $100,000,000 as compared to last year's record high of $95,704,500.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail, postal officials urgently advise that last-minute Christmas cards and parcels be sent special delivery and airmail. Special delivery letters, gift parcels and perishable matter (so marked) will be delivered on Christmas Day, but there will be no regular mail delivery.

Men Under 21.

IN VIEW of congressional discussion regarding conscription of men under 21, it is interesting to note that during the Civil war, the Union army totaled 2,778,304 men, of which 2,159,789 were under 21.

In addition, 104,987 were under 15 years of age; 1,523 were under 14 years of age, and 300 were under 13.

Also there were actually 38 boys in the Union army from ten to eleven years old, and 25 boys under the age of ten—drummers and buglers.

Postscript on Guam.

GUAM, strategic U. S. "stepping stone" base captured by the Japs, was long a subject of hot controversy between the navy department and congress. For years the navy tried to get funds to fortify this vital little insular possession and congress repeatedly blocked the plan.

Characteristic of this congressional shortsightedness was the debate that took place in the house on February 23, 1939, when a Guam appropriation was voted down 205 to 168. Here are a few of the gems uttered that day by some of the congressional masterminds who killed the item:

Representative John M. Robinson, of Kentucky, Republican isolationist: "The real danger to our country does not come from Japan. Japan, more and more, miles from our shores, and with a navy only two-thirds as large as ours, could make no successful attack on the Hawaiian Islands or continental United States if we mind our own business and stay neutral."

Representative James P. Richards, South Carolina Democrat who voted against the neutrality revision bill: "I'm against this ap-

A Farmer's Diary

It Happened Here

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IN THE small town of North Platte, Nebraska, there lived a humble laborer, his wife and nine children. The father earned $55 a month. It never reached. There was sacrifice in clothes, in diet, in entertainment . . . In practically everything a normal family requires.

When one of the boys was 14 he applied for a job at an office of the Union Pacific railroad. The boss looked the under-sized, undernourished youth over and gave him a job sweeping out. He worked from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. for $15 a month, and was glad for the chance. He slept in the forenoons, but after lunch he usually spent some hours helping out around the telegraph office—carrying coal, cleaning cuspidors, and learning telegraphy on the side.

For the afternoons he received no pay. For more than two years he faithfully pushed brooms until they wore out. The boss became interested in him for he had no other worker who was as willing to do extra work without a raise.

When the maintenance department needed a man, young Jeffers was appointed. But while working here, he helped the timekeeper out. Time passed, and the timekeeper died too. Jeffers became timekeeper in his own right. Then he spent his spare moments helping the dispatcher, and after two years assumed this job. Then the president of the railroad company appointed him train master at Green River, Wyoming. Some years later a large division around Denver needed an efficient train master and Green River lost an aspiring "coming" young man.

At this place he walked every mile of railroad track, both main

NEEDY OF CITY AND STATE ARE NOT FORGOTTEN

Generosity of More Fortunate
Brings Cheer To Thousands
For Christmas Holiday.

An unusually abundant Christmas is in store for Mansfield's needy this year, reflecting the generosity of more fortunate Mansfield residents who have been active in the "Give-A-Christmas" campaign and other welfare drives.

Hundreds of Mansfield persons who have no thought of enjoying a Christmas dinner and scores of needy children who would ordinarily receive no toys will be made happy through the big cooperative program being carried out in the city.

Throughout the state the "better" Christmas plan is reflected. Welfare workers report that the fewer persons on their "Christmas lists" this year would receive more presents than for any year in at least a decade.

Largest number of indigent families was in the state's largest city—Cleveland—where welfare agencies planned to provide Christmas baskets, clothing, coal, and presents to 10,000 families. Aided by $40,000 to $45,000 from sports and benefit shows sponsored by the city's three newspapers, charity workers said that every needy family would receive more gifts this year.

Relief rolls were down 50 per cent also in Cincinnati, Akron, Youngstown and Toledo.

In Warren an unusual welfare effort netted money for 500 food baskets. About 2,000 tickets were sold at $1.50 each for a theater show of 15 professional acts.

The Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce cooperated with another theater to create a "toy mountain" in the lobby. Patrons contributed some of the toys, which were distributed to children from low income families at a special free show.

London began Christmas gift-giving early when Santa Claus came to town and gave away 2,200 treats to the children. Fireman repaired hundreds of toys.

Gifts and a special Christmas program will be presented at many children's and county homes. Sixty children of the Madison county home have already seen the London prison farms annual show, "Fun For '41."

The Auglaize Post of the American Legion at Wapakoneta will entertain 200 poor children at an annual Christmas party. The Athens Junior Chamber of Commerce has arranged to distribute to needy children 2,000 toys made by WPA. Portsmouth firemen provided toys for 1,400 children and the civic forum contributed money collected in its July 4th campaign.

Toledo Refinery Turns Out New Airplane Fuel

TOLEDO — (AP) — Production of 100-octane aviation gasoline — 20 per cent higher powered than used by the Nazis—began recently at the Toledo refinery of the Standard Oil company.

It is the first plant of its kind to be completed since the federal government announced that increased production of the "perfect gas" would be a decisive factor in winning the war in the air.

This gas, once regarded as an unattainable laboratory idea, reduces knock and increases horsepower. It gives American and British fighters and bombers much greater speed, maneuverability and flying range over German types.

Capacity of the plant is a military secret, but it is stated that a day's production will be enough to carry a pursuit ship twice around the world at the equator.

OFFER LODGE HALL TO BILLET TROOPS

Mary B. Mitchell, Tent No. 40, Announces Plan at Meeting Held Monday Evening at Memorial Hall; Hold Annual Christmas Party.

MARY B. MITCHELL, Tent No. 40, offered its lodge hall for the billeting of soldiers in the event of a troop concentration in Mansfield, it was announced at a meeting of the organization held Monday evening at Memorial hall. Mrs. Ethel Metz, president, conducted the business session. During the meeting Mrs. Metz was elected council member, No. 1, of the tent. A donation was made to the Red Cross emergency fund. Reports on flags which were presented to local schools on Bill of Rights day, were given by Mrs. Marguerite Fair, Mrs. Alice Hunter and Mrs. Essie Miller. These flags were presented to the schools by Tent 40 and also the Daughters of America, Council 24. The evening prize was won by Mrs. Metz.

Legion Auxiliary Provides Gifts For Families

Auxiliary to McVey Post, American Legion, held its meeting and Christmas party last evening at the Legion home. Preceding the social time, a business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Marie Castor. Mrs. Pearl Hautz, enroder, rehabilitation chairman, reported sending clothing, groceries and toys to families of veterans. The auxiliary has adopted a ward at the Veterans' hospital in Dayton and members are sending a new dollar bill to each of the 35 men in the ward.

A World war nurse in Dayton was also remembered by a gift and a dollar is sent each month by the 17 past presidents of the auxiliary. Mrs. Ruth Browncombe, membership chairman, announced that there are now 326 auxiliary members. "Santa Claus" for the distribution of gifts exchanged by members was Mrs. Walter Beckler.

Program consisted of Christmas carols sung by the Mothers' Singing club of Carpenter school, with Mrs. Elsie Ireland as director and Mrs. James Weber as accompanist. Miss Elsie Smith, religious teacher in the public schools, told Christmas stories. Lunch was served at tables which had been made attractive with guletide decorations. Mrs. Fred Roth and her committee were in charge.

Naomi White Shrine Circle Meets Monday

Naomi White Shrine Circle met at Grotto hall Monday afternoon for a card party and business meeting. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Norma Miller in contract bridge, and to Mrs. Fanny Houston in auction bridge. The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. Ruby Dye, president.

At 6:00 o'clock a covered-dish dinner was served to the members and their families by Mrs. Stella Luth and her committee. The table decorations were in keeping with the Christmas season. Miss Thelma Hursh, worthy high priestess was in charge of the regular Shrine meeting at 7:30 o'clock. Following the business meeting, a ceremonial was held for new candidates. A Christmas program was then presented and a Santa Claus presented each member with a Shrine Hostess book, and a candy cane. The members of the Junior Married Peoples class of the St. John's Evangelical church gave a play. Those taking part were Mrs. Mary Hachten, Esley Cleckner, John Gross, Conrad Diehm, and Russell Minch. The play was directed by Henry Feidler.

The next meeting of the Shrine will be held January 26. Card games will begin at 2:30 o'clock and a banquet will be held with Mrs. Edna Berlo in charge. The Shrine will have inspection at 7:30 o'clock.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

H. C. McLaughlin, South Foster street, was honored with a surprise birthday party Monday evening at his home by his wife and twenty-three friends. A short play was presented by Mrs. Pearl Stors and Mrs. Ada Solinger of Crestline. Games and contests were diversions of the evening. Dinner was served at a long table decorated with lighted tapers and Christmas appointments. The honored guest was presented with many gifts at the close of the evening.

SEEK AID

ASHLAND—J. E. Bohn, superintendent of city schools, Don Hostetter, president of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce, and B. F. Green and Harry Pohle, representing local industries, were appointed to a committee yesterday by the Ashland Chamber of Commerce to contact OPM in an effort to continue factory employment here in rubber industries. The ban on rubber threatens layoffs of factory workers employed in these industries unless the plants can share in manufacture of war materials.

CLUB HOLD PARTY

GALION—Members of the Masque club enjoyed a Christmas party Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Donald Yochem. Catherine Plack was a guest. The time was spent in playing bridge at the close of which Santa Claus distributed the exchange of gifts.

Two Parties Held Monday

Dinner Party Held Recently By Association

Prospect Park association members held a covered dish dinner at the park pavilion recently. The committee in charge of the dinner included Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Linkhart, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Denny Schooley, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Shupp and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Payne.

Bridge and five hundred were diversions of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Clarence Ackerman, Harold Bensinger, Mrs. E. C. Hughes and S. W. Daugherty. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Shupp, L. O. Doolittle and Mr. Linkhart. The committee in charge of the meeting to be held on Jan. 21 is Mr. and Mrs. Carl Willis, Mr. and Mrs. George Schubdrer, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Doolittle, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hollingsworth and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hughes.

Child Guidance Club Has Party

Christmas party of the Child Guidance club was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Henry Albers, Lexington avenue road. Mrs. Bart Haley was associate hostess. The home was attractively decorated with two lighted Christmas trees and other seasonal trimmings. After a short business meeting members exchanged gifts and filled baskets with food and clothing for needy families.

Theme used when refreshments were served was in keeping with the season. On Jan. 12, the club will meet at the home of Mrs. W. Mickey, 203 West Park boulevard, with Mrs. L. J. Johnson as associate hostess. Papers will be given by Mrs. Gaylord Herring and Mrs. Floyd O'Brien.

DINNER AT HOTEL.

Christmas dinner was served recently to eight Mansfield Tire and Tube room girls at the Phoenix hotel. The table was decorated for Christmas. Later in the evening, the group attended a theater.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Daugherty spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Harriger, near Tiro.

WALL MAPS
Maps make decorative as well as instructive wall hangings for boys' rooms. Lay the maps on a flat surface, tacking down corners with thumb tacks, and quickly brush over the surface with clear shellac. When dry, hang the maps as desired. The shellac helps prevent the maps from tearing and makes them easy to clean.

Getting Rid Of Elusive Pine Needles

There are few things that are peskier to get rid of than the needles that drop from the Christmas tree. If you try to sweep them, they scatter. If you try to brush them up they stick to the bristles. After all the effort you still find them under the rugs, on the rugs, and on the floor.

Here is a trick for getting rid of the elusive needles quickly and effectively. After you have swept or brushed up the mass of needles, dampen a soft thick cloth by wringing it out in soapsuds. Rub this over the floor and carpet and see how the needles catch into the cloth and stay there. You will be able to clean them out in short order instead of finding them in odd places for months to come. Incidentally, this is a good way to pick up splinters such as you get from broken tree ornaments. If dust cloths, floor cloths, and other cleaning cloths are put to soak immediately after use in lukewarm suds, instead of being put aside for the weekly wash, they can be cleaned with the minimum of effort. Soak for an hour or two, depending upon the amount of imbedded soil.

Two Initiated Into Sorority Monday Night

In an impressive formal initiation ceremony conducted last evening at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Sigma Kappa Gamma sorority welcomed two new members, Miss Eva Schultz and Miss Anita Stelbelton. The services, which were held by candlelight, were in charge of Miss Dorothy Kelly, president. Both young women were presented with corsages and sorority pins.

A group picture of the sorority was taken after the ceremony. All members were present and were attired in lovely winter formal gowns. During the evening, which was spent socially, Christmas carols were sung. Gifts were distributed by Santa Claus. Names of the past year's secret sisters were disclosed and new ones for the coming year were chosen. At the close of the evening, a light luncheon was served from small individual tables which carried out the theme of Christmas with decorations and favors. Next regular meeting will be held Jan. 8 at the home of Miss Kelly, 241 Rhein avenue. Miss Jeanne Scott will be associate hostess.

Children Carol At Homes Of Club Members

Children of Child Study club members went caroling last evening, singing at the homes of those who belong to that organization. Twenty-four youngsters, four years of age and older, were taken around the city in automobiles furnished by five of the fathers: Dale Balph, Robert Richards, Jack Robbins, Fred Forkner and Clarence Beddard. Committee of mothers that arranged for the caroling was comprised of Mrs. Dale Balph, chairman, Mrs. Jack Robbins, Mrs. James Brown and Mrs. Emmet Casey. At the conclusion of the singing the group was entertained at the home of Mrs. Keith Miller, Chevy Chase road. Refreshments were served and each child presented a gift to be given to the Mansfield General hospital for the children's ward.

EUGENE LANTZ, freshman at Toledo university, is spending the holiday vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Lantz, 146 Marion avenue. Eugene recently was pledged to Phi Kappa Chi fraternity and was selected to serve as master of ceremonies for the intermission program at the recent Freshman Prom.

Tech. Sgt. and Mrs. Rene R. Cicolani arrived in Mansfield from Camp Shelby, Miss., last evening to spend nine days with Mrs. Clara McClure and Miss Gertrude McClure, 103 Helen avenue. Mrs. Cicolani is the daughter of Mrs. McClure. . . . Mrs. C. W. Marks and daughter, Mary Lou, 205 Helen avenue, left this morning for a motor trip to Fort Eustis, Va., where they will spend the Christmas holidays with Robert Marks, son of Mrs. Marks.

MR. AND MRS. W. F. FRANKENBERGER, 437 West Fourth street, have arrived at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for a winter vacation. This will be the seventh season Mr. and Mrs. Frankenger have spent at this Florida east coast resort and they plan to stay five months. . . . Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Amos and children, Barbara and John, of Jefferson City, Tenn., will arrive in the city Wednesday evening to spend the holidays with Mrs. E. J. Koerper, Park avenue west. Mrs. Effie Weidner, of this city, who has been spending the past two months with Mr. and Mrs. Amos, will return to the city with them. Mrs. Amos is a niece of Mrs. Koerper.

Rev. and Mrs. S. F. Porter and children of Noblesville, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. C. H. White of Louisville, Ky., and Charles White of Shelby, will arrive in the city Wednesday morning to spend the Christmas holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. White, Gerke avenue. Mrs. Porter is the former Miss Helen White of this city.

prised of Mrs. Dale Balph, chairman, Mrs. Jack Robbins, Mrs. James Brown and Mrs. Emmet Casey. At the conclusion of the singing the group was entertained at the home of Mrs. Keith Miller, Chevy Chase road. Refreshments were served and each child presented a gift to be given to the Mansfield General hospital for the children's ward.

ANNUAL PARTY.
Members of the Stall family held their annual Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stall, Davis road, recently. Cards and dancing were diversions of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Merle Stall, Merle Stall and Kenneth Stall. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with Christmas appointments. A gift exchange was held.

CHARITY CIRCLE PARTY.
One of the outstanding events in the year-round program of St. Elizabeth's Charity Circle was the Christmas party given for 25 children at the Evergreens last evening. A turkey dinner was enjoyed and Santa distributed three useful gifts and one toy to each child. The young guests are provided with clothing and other necessities throughout the year by the 10 members of the circle. This singing group was organized in February, two years ago. During the evening the youngsters enjoyed singing carols.

Earns Living But Continues School Work

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
I wish many more young women would emulate the writer of the following letter, in respect to self-improvement.
"Dear Dr. Myers:—Although I have never written you before, I have often wanted to tell you of the tremendous help your observations have been.
"I am a girl, twenty years old, just one in a family of eight children, and it is sometimes very easy to forget that my brothers and sisters are of different temperaments. Conflicts do occur. However, cultivation of the habit of tolerance, which you have urged repeatedly, can do so much to make life happier for all, that such a creed should be preached and preached and preached!
"Studying at Night.
"Your article wherein you speak of the opportunities there are for young people to continue their education, although they must work, encourages me greatly. It is just three years since I took my high school diploma, and although I had planned to go to college, conditions made it impossible. Instead, I found a job working evenings so that I might pay for a course in a business college.
"At the present time I am employed in a small manufacturing concern as an office assistant. ...Four nights a week I find myself hurrying off to school. The school I attend is a public one, the cost is next to nothing, and yet it is possible to secure a Junior college diploma. The time I spend in study, as I will admit, a little too much, for it interferes with social life, which is important, too. But I do not begrudge it for I am thankful that the city I live in provides such a fine opportunity for its youth.
"Vocational Training.
"I have just completed my first semester's work in college, earning seven credits. ...I have enrolled in English and psychology. I feel very strongly about the need for adequate vocational training and counseling to our high school students.
"Again I would like to thank you for the interest shown in the efforts of young people to further their education. Such an attitude is not so prevalent as it should be. I should like to take advantage of your suggestion to secure the material, entitled, 'Tips to Students' and 'A Selected List of Books on How to Study.' For this purpose, I am enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope."
These may be had by anyone else who will write me, as she did, at 235 East 45th St., New York City, enclosing a stamped envelope.

PRESENT CAROLS
GALION — The choir of Grace Episcopal church will present fifteen minutes of carol singing on Christmas Eve at services that will begin at 11:15 p. m.
At 11:30 o'clock the celebration of the Holy Eucharist will be observed. Rev. Robert F. McGregor, will officiate.

COLLECT $107
BUCYRUS — Bucyrus business men belonging to the city's service clubs collected $107 Saturday when they manned the Salvation Army Christmas kettles. More than $100 is still needed to provide baskets of food for approximately 100 families. Fifty chickens have been donated for the baskets by Bucyrus poultry dealers.

Can Answer Marion.
"Yes, I was just about to tell you that," she answered. "This fly to the clouds also means that she has a chance to read the daily papers, and urges me to insert a personal in each one, telling her in code that I have received her message."
My father interrupted imperatively.
"It's too late for the afternoon papers, but we can get the message into every morning one. What is the code message she wishes you to say, Jim?"
"It is to be addressed to 'Jim' and to be signed 'Sam'." My father answered. "Marion used to say the men holding her—in the drama she concocted—might suspect something if they saw a message from one woman to another."
"She was wise in her generation," my father said. "And what was the message you were to send her?"
"I was to say, 'Jim. Received your shipment okay.'," she said at last. "Sorry to hear of your trouble. Keep the chin up. Remember, I am on the job 'Sam'."
"Very ingenious," my father said approvingly. "Was there any special meaning in those phrases, besides their assurance that you had received and understood her code letters?"

Horoscope
For Wednesday, December 24.
An enterprising and lively day, probably centered in the pursuit of pleasure rather than sordid objectives, is forecast from interesting planetary figures. Should the pleasurable ambitions of the day be firmly held in leash and some thought be given to business progress and security, there is promise of some surprising developments, with elders showing appreciation of such worthy application and solidity. Be especially careful with foods, libations, etc.
Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very pleasant as well as profitable years ahead of them, with sudden opportunity for furthering ambitious progress, arising from unexpected origins, with elders, relatives or old-established institutions ready to recognize and promote worthy projects. This may have the aspect of originality and novelty, and may involve change.
A child born on this day will have much initiative, with creative ability in original or novel lines. It will have practicality and stability to sustain its progressive ideas and attain success.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"You've remembered something else!" I told Mary, and though my father's composed face and manner were a rebuke to my excitement, I could not keep my voice, or hands, from shaking as I made the assertion.
"Yes, I think I have," she answered. Then she turned with pretty deference to my father.
"Do you happen to have that letter from Marion to her mother?" she asked.
"I have your Aunt Margaret's copy of it," my father said, with the exactness which is so integral a part of him. "I brought it especially for you to see."
"Oh, thank you," Mary said, as he took the letter from his pocket and handed it to her. She seized it avidly and scanned it.
"This is it!" she said. "I remember now."
"You see she says here, I am so terribly, terribly happy, darling Mummy, that I could fly up to the clouds." And you already know, because the word 'terribly' is misspelled both times, that she isn't happy.
"But," she went on, "that phrase 'I could fly up to the clouds' means something else."
She stopped and looked at my father.
"Auntie Madge says that you believe Marion to be in some high building in the city."
"That is correct," he said. "We base the belief upon the code, where she misspells 'would.' That means mountains, does it not?"
"High up in some Building."
"Yes, it does," Mary said with a sharp drawing of her breath.
"But as from other evidence we believe her to be in the city, we have concluded that she means a high building. She has no other word to mean high up, has she?"
"Except this, 'I could fly to the clouds,'" Mary answered.
"In our unwritten code," she went on, "Marion never would put this particular part into writing. She insisted upon us both memorizing it. And that phrase means two things. One is that she is very high up in some building. If she had been in a basement she would have said that she felt like swimming far out in the ocean."
"That is splendid, Mary," my father said heartily. "We now are certain of that point."
"Just a minute ago, Mary," I said, "you spoke of a way by which Marion might know we had received her messages."
"Can Answer Marion."
"Yes, I was just about to tell you that," she answered. "This fly to the clouds also means that she has a chance to read the daily papers, and urges me to insert a personal in each one, telling her in code that I have received her message."

For Wednesday, December 24.
An enterprising and lively day, probably centered in the pursuit of pleasure rather than sordid objectives, is forecast from interesting planetary figures. Should the pleasurable ambitions of the day be firmly held in leash and some thought be given to business progress and security, there is promise of some surprising developments, with elders showing appreciation of such worthy application and solidity. Be especially careful with foods, libations, etc.
Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very pleasant as well as profitable years ahead of them, with sudden opportunity for furthering ambitious progress, arising from unexpected origins, with elders, relatives or old-established institutions ready to recognize and promote worthy projects. This may have the aspect of originality and novelty, and may involve change.
A child born on this day will have much initiative, with creative ability in original or novel lines. It will have practicality and stability to sustain its progressive ideas and attain success.

Defense Products Inspiration For Changing Styles

By KAY DANIELS
Echoes of the word "defense" grow louder and louder as the fashion industry speeds up the style business. For every reported shortage, there's something new to take its place. Hundreds of women lament the passing of silk stockings, but there are just as many who believe that when silk is gone the American fashion market will know what to do about it.
In the meantime, the stocking repair business is booming. New York stores are setting up repair booths on main floors.
An impending shortage is not the only impetus to the buying orgy that's going on. New gowns, jewelry, colors and changing styles all take inspiration from "defense" products. Oddly enough, one of the first manifestations of this trend is in the promotion of metal effects.
New Metallic Colors.
Probably the most exhilarating range of evening colors ever conceived has just been introduced in Celanese fabrics, called "Metal-tones." These take their names and basic color inspiration from metals used in the defense industry. There's a brilliant sulphur-like yellow called "potassium," a glowing apricot called "antimony," and a "mercury red" with a strawberrie cast. "Nickel salt" is in the peacock blue tone; "chromium green" like the softest Nile green; and "manganate purple" a shade of the most flattering tone. The wearing of pleasing, animated colors is just what the boys are ordering for their home-coming parties.
Stone Tints For Campus.
Not to be outdone in the evening dress field, the makers of college clothes for the campus are dyeing their wools and crepes in colors taken from stones, and the future sweater brigade are buying their skirts and pullovers in these Juggo natural stone tints. These include sandstone brown; red Jasper, azurite blue; clorite green; a spruce shade; amethyst; serpentine green; on the yellow tons; gossin gold; desert clay—a sandy rose; opalite wine; and malachite blue—deepest aqua.
Marriage of Metals.
Jewelry claims attention this week under the imposing title of the "Marriage of Metals," as one store puts it. This calls attention to the use of contrasting metals or metallic tones in a single piece of jewelry. A floral spray, for example, will be made in two contrasting golds—pink gold and a deep, coppery shade. Or a jewelry ensemble may be made up of bright silver and gold Necklaces, bracelets, earrings, all subscribe to this mixed metal effect.
Defense Colors in Hosiery.
Not that it makes very much difference today, a check-up on those stockings you hoarded from the new collections, may reveal these defense colors introduced by the makers of Blue Moon hosiery: "Grenade"—in a sunny gold; "Torpedo"—dark tan; "Reveille"—sunny tan; "Bomb"—a medium dark beige; and "Gun" the taupe-toned beige. The lucky owner of these dark colors will need her own defense measures to hold on to them.
Functional Fashions.
One of the effects of these troublesome times is to give greater attention to functional fashions. The average woman will be amused with "defense" colors, but she will be quick to appreciate all the functional and utility features of fall clothes, which offer to her the greatest defense against future need. There will be coats for the school age and grown-ups too, with removable linings, to take care of changing weather conditions. There will be more dresses with detachable yokes and skirts; many wool dresses with separate, little fitted jackets to wear with or without coats; dresses of Celanese Featherhead with contrasting jumpers made like South American ponchos; and two-color dresses of crepe with apron-tunics that come off for changeable effects.
Slim Silhouette.
Some fashion reporters attribute the slim silhouette to a "defense" measure and the conservation of fabric. We may come to this in time, but the present fashion picture gives no indication of stinting the material, even if the dress is narrow and straight. For toppling the straight skirt there are varied forms of the apron and

The Walls Came Tumbling + +

CHAPTER XXIV
"I don't know... There's another thing I wanted to talk about, Andy. I've about decided to leave the office."

"And why?"
"Because I don't need the money. Some girl without a job should have mine."

"Hm. And she probably told you so. There's something in the idea. Perhaps you should. That will be a little change in itself. I've been thinking the same thing about my shop. My friend Nick the Greek has a fellow countryman who dreams of running a pants-pressing emporium and I'm tempted to encourage him. My fixtures aren't worth much... merely a matter of putting a figure on the Delaine good-will," he added whimsically. "I'll probably luck myself when I see him making a young fortune. Those Hellenes have ways as well as words."

"Well, I know one thing," Carol said, a look of determination in her brown eyes. "It's time I was getting out of my rut and this general daze... time to be doing something on my own. And worth while."

"Such as?" Andy bit the end from a cigar and regarded his daughter curiously.

"I don't know. But something." "Good. I can understand... There's something funny, too. Do you notice how I'm forever saying that I can understand this person and that person? I've sprung it two or three times since we've been talking. But you never hear me say I understand myself. Worse still, I never have. That's something to think of. Next to you, I've missed my zither most of all these past few days. I'll wager it's dusty."

Carol's new resolution to accomplish something was still in her mind when she woke the next morning. She went to work in her car. As soon as Dr. Silverthorne appeared, she announced that she had decided to give up her position with him. She believed it was the thing to do, but she would remain until he arranged for her successor.

"Whatever you think, Carol," "as his brief response. "I'll look around a bit. Been fairly busy of late. I think I may have to have someone."

"And would you mind if I look an hour or so off this morning?" "No," He stared curiously. "Don't tell me you are going out to look for another job... on my time?"

"Not exactly," she smiled. "Not here in Jericho, at least."

Head erect and looking neither to the right or left, Carol drove to the Lennons home. There was no chance whatever that Wige would be there and this errand did not concern him, now. When she reached the house she parked outside the fence rather than follow the driveway that led to the rear. She smiled a little to herself as she got out, aware that neighbors' tongues would wag excitedly. Fortunately, she had not given her car a great deal and many passers-by would not associate it with her. She walked quickly to the front door and rang the bell.

After a while steps sounded in the hall. Amanda Lennon opened the door cautiously, then threw it wide.

"Good gracious, Carol Delaine! Since when do you have to come to a body's front door?"

"I had a reason," the caller smiled. "How are you? May I come in?"

"Well, I should think as much. You're a sight for some eyes, dear!" Amanda wiped her hands on her apron and extended her right. "But you did give me a start. Come out into the sitting room where it's warm."

"Just a minute," Carol hesitated. "It was such a nice morning. I thought Charlie would be in his shop and I wanted to speak to you alone if I may."

"He is. The poor boy won't come in until I make him have his dinner. He won't want to even then. So we can talk all you like. Take this chair, dear." She was sitting in the corner of her parlor as she spoke. "How nice you look! It seems so good to see you again."

Carol sat looking into her hostess' faded but eager eyes, not quite sure how best to introduce the topic of her visit. As long as she had known Amanda Lennon she suddenly realized that she didn't know the little woman at all. She habitually wore a worried air, rather helpless—or was it hopeless? Yet she could speak her mind determinedly enough when there was occasion. She must have worked very hard Carol thought. But she could not recall any show of emotion or affection by Mrs. Lennon. Not even toward Charlie, although she never was short in her speech with him as she often was with Wige.

Amanda, however, began the interview with an abrupt question. One that left Carol very nearly speechless with confusion.

"Did you come to talk to me about Wilbur?"

"Why, no... Oh, no!"

"I hoped you had maybe. He's eating his heart out, Carol, for you."

Under any other circumstances, Mrs. Lennon's flat-toned assertion that Wige was "eating his heart out" on Carol's account would have struck that young woman as an ironic bit of humor. Wige had told her plainly enough that her change of fortune had raised a barrier between them and that he would make no further attempt to win her favor.

So far, he had studiously avoided continuing their old friendship in the face of her invitation. His mother was utterly mistaken, but the issue might as well be faced.

"I think you are wrong, Mrs. Lennon," she observed calmly.

"And perhaps it would be better if we had a frank understanding. Of course I do not know what Wige may have told you."

"He hasn't said anything. He doesn't have to. I can tell."

"Then I will," Carol said. "You know...everybody here does... that my father made some money. I had nothing to do with it and I tried to explain that to Wige. I had to ask him to come to see me. He told me things couldn't be as they had been—between us—and he didn't come back again. And of course it's perfectly all right if he feels that way."

"He don't," Amanda insisted stubbornly. "People here talk. They said right off that Wilbur was luck with you being rich like you are. It hurt him. He don't eat like he used to and he won't talk to a body. He don't even try to keep Charlie cheerful like he always did. All he thinks of is his work. That's why he took that new job, so's he could make more money. Maybe he thought you'd like him better or something."

"That's foolish," Carol protested. "I imagine Wige is working too hard and that is why he seems changed. I understand that he has been working days and evenings."

"He has. He can't go on like that."

"Oh, well he's sure to be better. I heard that he left the banks the first of the month. He won't have to work so hard."

"Just the same, he goes to the office nights. I guess he tries to keep his mind off his troubles that way, but it don't help much with that man running out to your house all the time. I mean his boss. I never can call his name somehow."

"You're mistaken about that, too," Carol said quietly, although her face flushed slightly under the older woman's gaze.

"Mr. Dennison comes occasionally to see my father."

"That's funny. Folks say he hasn't much use for Andy."

"Oh yes he has. They are very good friends. But I wanted to talk about something else, Mrs. Lennon. Something that really matters."

"What's that?"

"Charlie." The faded eyes had a change of expression. "What about him, Carol?"

"Just this. I have heard Doctor Silverthorne say a number of times that he believed it Charlie could go to a place called Siola Springs the treatments there would help him ever so much."

"I never heard of it."

"Wige knows about it," Carol observed pointedly. "It's a place where they care for people with infantile paralysis. Hundreds have been helped. Doctor says it's nothing less than marvelous the things they do. He doesn't say he thinks they could cure Charlie, but it might help him greatly."

"And it would cost a fortune."

Amanda said in a colorless voice. "No it wouldn't. That was the main reason I asked Wige to come to the house. My father has given me quite a little money. You know how fond I am of Charlie and I wanted so to... I mean I asked Wige if he would not let me furnish the money to send Charlie to Siola for a little while. That it could be a loan, if he'd rather have it that way. But Wige wouldn't do it."

Carol paused in near alarm at the change she saw come over Amanda Lennon's face. The color faded from her cheeks and her chin quivered pitifully. Her two work-roughened hands were clasped tightly against her shrunken breasts. She tried to speak, but the words would not come.

"I understand," the girl assured comfortingly. "It was just that Wige felt too proud at first."

Two large tears rolled down the mother's face and Carol felt her own eyes fill suddenly at the sight.

"Too proud... too proud to help... to help my baby?"

"Then you would be willing."

To Carol's amazement, Amanda slipped from her chair onto her knees. She reached for the girl blindly with both arms, stared up at her with streaming eyes.

"Carol! Do you mean it?" she cried brokenly. "You wouldn't fool me, would you? Oh, you don't know... you don't know! She buried her face in Carol's lap. "I've prayed and prayed."

The girl could not speak. She stroked the gray head softly and tried to gain control of her own emotions. Could this be Mrs. Lennon? How very long this grief must have been pent up, unshared.

"Carol Delaine... I could kiss your feet..."

"Nonsense!" She wiped her eyes. "I must be going very shortly and we must plan things. You'll have to help me, you know."

Almost as quickly as Amanda had left her rocking chair she was in it once more, rubbing her face with her apron so vigorously that she brought a dull red into her high cheek bones.

"I... I didn't mean to make a fool of myself, Carol. You hit me unexpected."

"That's all right. Then it's settled that Charlie is going to Siola."

"I can't believe it—yet."

"Well, he is. For his sake and mine, too. I want to be of some use in this world. But you and I have to do some plotting."

"What do you mean? I'll do anything."

"Fine. Here it is: I am going to ask Doctor Silverthorne to make arrangements at the Springs. He knows the people there. I don't know how long it might take. I'll see that Charlie gets there when the time comes. If I have to kidnap him. But you must promise me something, Mrs. Lennon."

"Anything, Carol!"

"You must not breathe a word of it to Wige or to Charlie. They must not suspect what we are up to. I have reasons for asking that. Will you give me your solemn word of honor?" She smiled.

"Yes, dear. Will it be all right if I sort of plan on getting Charlie's things ready... just a little at a time? I'll be careful."

"Why of course."

"And, Carol, maybe I was a little wrong about Wilbur. He just could have taken that job so's to earn money to help his brother. He is fond of him."

Amanda was plainly anxious.

"I wouldn't be surprised," Carol agreed sympathetically. "But it might take him quite a while and I don't think it's fair to make Charlie wait. Everything will be all right. Don't worry."

"Aren't you going to see Charlie before you leave? I've got to get myself together a little, but you can go to the shop. He'll be disappointed."

Famous Romance.

"Smilin' Through," the world famous love story set to beautiful music, has now become a technicolor film with Jeanette MacDonald in the leading role of Moon-yeon and later as the latter's modern niece, Kathleen Brian Aherne appears as Sir John Carteret, who loses his bride on their wedding day, through a pistol shot fired by a jealous suitor. Gene Raymond, Miss MacDonald's husband in real life plays the dual role of the suitor and latter, that of his young son. Frank Borzage directed the film which has its locale in England.

Debunks Filmdom.

"Glamour Boy," Jackie Cooper's starring vehicle that pokes fun at filmdom, opens Wednesday at the Madison. The film, to some extent, is a counterpart of Cooper's own story and deals with an erstwhile child-star turned soda-jerk as the result of fickle fans.

Walter Abel is cast as a producer who guides the destiny of a great motion picture corporation while Ann Gillis and Susanna Foster help provide the glamor. "Go West, Young Lady," a song and dance comedy with a western atmosphere, is the second attraction.

Penny Singleton, Glenn Ford and Ann Miller are starred.

Technicolor Drama.

"Blossoms in the Dust," starring Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon and Fay Holden headlines the bill at the Ritz. The picture is in technicolor. Roy Rogers is starred in the second film, "Red River Valley."

Rolling Comedy.

The Weaver Brothers and Elviry, popular vaudeville favorites for more than two decades, are appearing in another rollicking screen picture, "Tuxedo Junction," opening Wednesday at the Park. Laid on a California truck farm the picture places the Weavers as

GEN. JOHNSON: Induction of Married Men In Army Seen

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—There's a lot of talk about "streamlining" the civilian side of the war production effort by some centralized authority to coordinate the hodge-podge of alphabetical "defense" monies.

The trouble with most of these ideas is that they presuppose the existence of another Barney Baruch. I can see no one of that gentleman's peculiar talents—with the vigor he had in 1917—on the Washington scene.

Barney Baruch had no statutory authority, nor was he granted detailed or extensive authority in any high-sounding executive order.

He had a personal letter from the war president telling him to do the job. This he did by the simple force of his personality and by assuming the necessary authority whenever he had to use it—which was very rarely. He dealt man to man with people whose only desire was to get the job done too.

There was practically no pride of office, jurisdictional jealousy or bureaucratic red tape impeding his efforts. In the rare instances where such obstacles did arise, those responsible for the obstructions were removed.

There could be a lot of such removals right now. The relief from command of the generals and admirals holding the responsibility for the Pacific fiasco was universally approved.

No matter who else was responsible for that disaster they held the positions of responsibility and therefore they had to go. But why should we confine this head-chopping to the military and naval authorities?

Our production effort is far more important at present, both to us and to our allies, than any military effort we might make at this time. I have heard no one, whose opinion merits consideration, express any degree of satisfaction with our production effort to date.

Since this is the case, why don't some civilian heads roll? What is the difference between a general of the army and a general of production? Evidently the OPM has heard the whetting of the headman's sword. They have just published an administrative order which purports to "streamline" their mess.

As far as one can make out from the almost incoherent wording of the order, it provides that those "industrial branches" which hitherto reported to the division of civilian supply (that is, Leon Henderson) will now report directly to the director general and the associate director general. The latter is also Henderson. Without stressing the obvious fact that no one can report successfully to two masters, this order, apparently, detracts from the authority of the only man in this whole picture who even vaguely approaches the stature of Baruch. If it doesn't, it is mere eyewash.

I know Leon Henderson well and disagree with him on many points. But there is one thing that you've got to admire about this guy. He takes the ball and runs with it. With far less authority than the grandiose Knudsen-Hillman order provides. He has accomplished far more than they.

Undoubtedly he gets into the hides of a lot of his associates. Either his head or theirs should drop in the basket. The great firmness shown in the Pacific army and navy affairs was universally approved. If it means anything, it is just as necessary in this case to confirm the growing popular confidence in our war effort.

Doubtless the heads of some of Mr. Henderson's associates should go, too. But Leon is an able, young technician with brains. His going to war with the war on the industrial as well as on the military side.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway at Christmas.

It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold.

THERE is more unself than ever on the tinsel street these nights because Christmas is near. The lights that shine brightest are aglow on the branches of fir trees, the sound that sounds loveliest is the tinkle of silver bells, and the air of the night is full of the crisp smell of pine that you never forget from your childhood.

There are gay trees in the night clubs—green ones with shiny red globes in the Broadway fun spots, and frosty white ones lit with blue in the streamlined dance places of Park Avenue. . . The chorus girls, who are as pretty as Christmas dolls in a toy shop, hum carols on their way to work. . . The theaters expect a slump! but the churches are playing to standing room only.

"Peace on earth, good will to men, from Heaven's all gracious King."

The peace on earth this year is only in the hymns and carols, but not so the good will. There is plenty of that in our town. . . A civilian army has descended upon the department stores, armed with generosity and a bulging billfold.

Stars like Gertrude Lawrence and Sophie Tucker and Jimmy Durante and Eddie Cantor and Georgie Jessel make plans for the needy while they're shopping for their friends. . . Florence Eldridge and Fredric March are giving out defense bonds and defense stamps for presents and for tips. . . Pedestrians slow down when they come to the corners, and drop pennies and dimes and quarters into the paper mache chimneys of the not-too-plump false-bearded Santas. . . Times Square is behind the snowball, not the eight-ball.

"Hark, the herald angels sing, glory to the newborn King. Peace on earth, and mercy-mild, God and sinners reconciled."

Rockefeller Plaza is transformed into a wonderland with giant gold organ pipes, rising against the skyscrapers, and holly wreaths and a tall tree trimmed with lights the size of balloons, and real reindeer. And in the center of all this Winter loveliness, people skating like creatures in an old-fashioned print.

There are a million candlelit windows already in the city, put there by a citizenry that can't wait for its favorite holiday.

"Oh, Holy Night, the stars are brightly shining. It is the night of the Dear Saviour's birth."

Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. TIRE BUILDERS
MEET TO TALK
OVER RATIONING

Disagree on Value of 'War Tires' Built From Reclaimed Rubber.

AKRON — Top executives of the rubber industry convened in Washington today, and took with them some differences of opinion over the use of reclaimed rubber in making "war tires."

The primary purpose of their meeting with government officials was a discussion of problems related to the rationing of crude rubber for civilian use, scheduled to begin Jan. 4. The "war tire" question was expected to arise.

Firestone Tire and Rubber company and Goodyear Tire and Rubber company have announced production plans for tires made entirely of rubber which has been reclaimed from old tires and other products, but spokesmen for other concerns either doubted the practicability of this type of tire, or favored other measures.

In announcing Goodyear's plans, Chairman P. W. Litchfield said "quite frankly, the material from which it is made, regenerated rubber, is not to be compared with crude rubber," but added that the "war tire" was "better than having no tires at all." He said 35 miles an hour was top speed for the tire made of reclaimed rubber.

Harry P. Schrank, vice president in charge of production for Seiberling Tire and Rubber company, said tires made wholly of this material present problems which cannot be solved successfully, and declared his concern's tests showed "they do not give even 20 percent of the mileage of a quality tire."

B. F. Goodrich company is not making "war tires," and President John F. Sollyer commented that "unrestricted sale of tires made from reclaimed rubber could mean that our armed forces and those agencies upon which we depend for transportation of our vital goods might suffer. Every phase of the industry should be studied in relation to the whole emergency."

William O'Neil, president of General Tire and Rubber company, favored a liberal policy by the government in releasing crude rubber for re-treading old tires, saying 15,000 tons of crude rubber would save 65,000,000 passenger car tires from the scrap pile and give them 80 percent of their original mileage.

Plymouth and Shelby Plants Distribute Yule Bonuses Among Employees.

Santa Claus remembered 1,100 employees at two Mansfield area plants today with bonus checks totaling an estimated $90,000.

Fate-Roth-Heath company at Plymouth announced payment of $30,000 to 475 employees, and the Shelby Salesbook company at Shelby announced distribution of checks to 600 factory, office and sales force workers.

Although Salesbook officials declined to disclose the total amount distributed, they said the amount, the same percentage paid in 1940, was "substantially larger than for any period in the past" due to increased earnings and a larger working force. The company last year distributed $51,000 to 500 employees.

Officials said the bonus represented 5 percent of the workers' salaries for the past year.

The company manufactures and distributes salesbooks, carbon forms and continuous form stationery.

Fred T. Buzard, vice president and general manager of the Fate-Roth-Heath company said the distribution to office, factory and sales people represented five percent of their earnings for the past 12 months.

The company manufactures locomotives and during the past year has been engaged actively in defense equipment.

RITES SET FOR GALION MAN WHO DROWNED IN RESERVOIR

GALION — Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Wednesday for Jacques Robert Green, 26, of Galion, who drowned in Erie Reservoir here Monday despite heroic rescue attempts by Patterson Maurice Bowers and others.

Bowers narrowly escaped a similar fate. Responding to the call for help sounded when Queen was seen to fall through the ice, the patrolman jumped into the water fully clad in uniform. He managed to get within 15 feet of Queen, but due to exposure and cold was unable to go further. Bowers was pulled from the water by Charles Lamb, Galion fireman.

Two boys, James and Ralph Flowers, who were having a winter roast on the shore of the reservoir, saw Queen go through the ice and sent the call for help. They said he called to them, "Don't you boys ever try this." He apparently had been crossing the ice to look at traps on the reservoir shore.

Police and firemen recovered the body by use of a boat and grappling hook. They attempted artificial respiration, but were unsuccessful.

Queen's death came just one day before he and his wife, the former Pauline Grogg of Galion, were to celebrate their wedding anniversary. They have two children, Terra Jo and Malcolm Paul, and resided at 848 Harding Way East.

Also surviving are seven brothers and sisters—Teddy, Sonny, and Kathryn Queen, all of Crestline; Junior Queen and Mrs. Earl Pierman, Galion; William Queen, Detroit; and Marilyn Jean Queen, Mansfield.

Queen was a member of the United Brethren church. For three years he had been employed at the North Electric Manufacturing company.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Volk funeral home, with Rev. O. E. Knepp of the United Brethren church officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery here.

Expect Reclassification of 3-A Men With Wives as Only Dependents.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The average Ohioan, aged 20 to 45, who thought he was immune from the draft because he supported his wife might make a pretty good soldier for Uncle Sam's army.

In fact, there is a good chance he will be in uniform sometime before the war is over.

State selective service officials said today they "wouldn't be surprised at all" to receive an order from national draft headquarters asking immediate reclassification and induction of all married men who were deferred because only their wives were dependent upon them.

"With heavier draft calls anticipated all the time we will have to turn to new sources of manpower," Lieut. Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service director, said. "To supply men for an army of a million and a half men is one thing but to supply them for an army of four or five million men is something else."

The new draft law requiring registration of all men between 18 and 64 and making those from 20 to 44 inclusive subject to military service makes possible an army of approximately 4,000,000 men.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, announced last week that future draft calls would summon 200,000 men monthly from throughout the nation. Since draft calls are allocated to the states on the basis of population Ohio's monthly calls under the stepped-up system would amount to almost 10,000 men a month. The 35 calls issued in Ohio in the past year have averaged less than 2,000 men each.

Col. Goble said it was "logical" to turn to the men in Class 3-A as a source of supply of army manpower because approximately 70 percent of all registrants fall into that classification. Only seven per cent of the 898,000 men classified from the two previous draft registrations have been placed in Class 1-A and made available for immediate army duty.

As a prelude to a concerted drive for potential draftees, Col. Goble has instructed 100 local draft boards to select 100 cases of Class 3-A men at random for review. Purpose of the review is to determine whether or not a wholesale reopening of 3-A deferments would be justified, Goble said.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Sophia Flockerzi, Widow of City Official, Dies.

Mrs. Sophia Flockerzi, member of a pioneer Mansfield family and widow of the late Conrad Flockerzi, former city councilman and member of city service board, died in General hospital Monday following an illness of several months.

Mrs. Flockerzi was the daughter of George and Anna (Ackerman) Rettig, pioneer Mansfield couple who resided in a log cabin at the intersection of what is now Park avenue west and Helen avenue. She was born in Mansfield and lived here all her life.

Conrad Flockerzi, who died in 1924, served as city councilman for several terms and was a member of the city service board prior to establishment of the one-man service director system in 1910.

Mrs. Flockerzi is survived by one sister, Miss Anna Rettig, a Mansfield school teacher for many years, with whom she made her home at 74 Wood street. Also surviving are a number of nieces and nephews, great-nephews and great nieces, and four great-grand-nephews.

She was a member of St. Matthews Lutheran church. The body is now at the Jones Memorial where friends will be received and where funeral services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Friday. Rev. C. F. Sheriff will officiate, and interment will be made in Mansfield cemetery.

Lines To A Lad Whose Dad Won't See Christmas

By WALTER KIERNAN (INS Staff Writer)

(Lines to a small boy whose dad will not be with him for Christmas—ever again.)

Santa is coming and Christmas is here

And where is my daddy, my daddy dear?

He's gone, little lad, in a flaming plane

Diving to death and singing your name.

Why didn't he stay and play with my toys

Like other dads do with their little boys?

Your dad was a soldier, little son

And he died a hero in war just begun.

He rode to Valhalla on silver wings

And he'll be there when the angels sing.

"Peace on earth to men of good will!"

(But not to tyrants, lustful to kill)

Then what shall I do for my daddy dear?

Shall I laugh or forget—or shed a tear?

I'd buy him a wreath with a silver bow,

A "Christmassy" wreath and then he'd know

That you were a soldier, little lad,

A soldier son for a soldier dad!

PREPARE TO DEDICATE NEW Y AT BUCYRUS

New $18,000 Building To Be Officially Opened Sunday.

BUCYRUS—Dedication services for the Y. M. C. A. which has been in the stages of remodeling since spring, will be held Sunday afternoon.

Speaker for the program has not been announced.

The building, one of the most modern of its kind in central Ohio, was made possible through a donation of $18,000 by John Q. Snunk, Bucyrus manufacturer and philanthropist.

The building, a two story brick structure, was badly damaged by fire in February.

In the Christmas setting at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday, Miss Christine Sherer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sherer, Tiffin road, became the bride of Samuel Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cook, of east of Bucyrus. The Rev. H. A. Blum, pastor of the church, officiated for the service which was read before an altar banked with decorated fir trees.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and her sister, Mrs. Elsie Angene, attended her as matron of honor. Another sister, Margaret, and Miss Marvel Cook, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Emory Cook served his brother as best man.

The couple will live in Marion where Mrs. Cook is employed as Marion county home demonstration agent. Mr. Cook is coach at North Robinson high school.

Miss Evelyn Lea and Melvin Kiess, who are employed in the ordinance department in Washington, D. C., returned to Bucyrus to exchange nuptial vows in Epworth Methodist church Sunday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Lea, Wyandot road and Mr. Kiess is the son of Mrs. Ruby Guinther, east of Bucyrus.

Miss Marjorie Lea, a sister, was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Evelyn Stuck and Betty Allen, both fellow employees in Washington, D. C. Mr. Kiess was served by Frederick Schieber.

Seventy guests were received at a reception at the Lea home following the ceremony.

The couple left for Chicago for a wedding trip. They will live in Washington.

Mrs. Kiess is a graduate of Bucyrus high school with the class of 1938 and of Tiffin Business university. Mr. Kiess is a graduate of Marietta high school of 1934.

TELLS ROTARY ABOUT INDIA

Galion Workman's Impressions Presented To Galion Group By Paper.

GALION—An interesting paper written by Harold Clements of Galion, North Electric Manufacturing company engineer, who during the 1920's was in India for four years working for the company, was read at the meeting of the Galion Rotary club Monday night, by a fellow workman, Howard Duhamel.

Impressions of India were recorded in the paper. Clements was of the opinion that India will always be dominated by an external power. Britain has exploited India, he wrote, but only in the sense that a scientific farmer exploits his land.

Regarding political status of the country, there are contradictions, Clements stated. Some groups in the country want complete independence, while others want considerable freedom, but some control by Great Britain. The paper also explained social and religious differences in India. Since the first World war, there has been a growing disrespect for England among the Hindus, due to action of some British officers, and also to American movies. The movies, Clements wrote, according to the Hindu, means a portrayal of the average white man's life.

One new member, Franklin Craun, was welcomed into the club.

ART DIRECTORS OFFER HELP IN 'HIDING' CITY

Would Camouflage Oil Wells as Forests and 'Move' Vital Airports.

(By United Press)
HOLLYWOOD—The boys who've spent their lives fooling the cash customers—we're talking about the motion picture art directors—offered the government some help today on fooling those Japs.

The art directors are the babies who make grass grow on hardwood floors, plant fields of pumpkins on walls, build their own skies, clouds included, and otherwise make things seem what they're not.

They're now in the midst of making a deal with the camouflage unit of the army, 604th engineers, to turn Los Angeles and strategic environs into dump heaps, back yards and no telling what else, when viewed from above.

"What got us to thinking about it," reported Lionel Banks, the Columbia studios chief, "was the fact that one of our $1,000 a week technicians had been given a job as an air raid warden, standing on a hill top with a flash light.

"Anybody with good eyes can scan the skies for planes. But not everybody knows about camouflage. The camouflage is our business. It is difficult to fool a movie camera, but when you can actually do that, then you shouldn't have much trouble fooling oriental aviators."

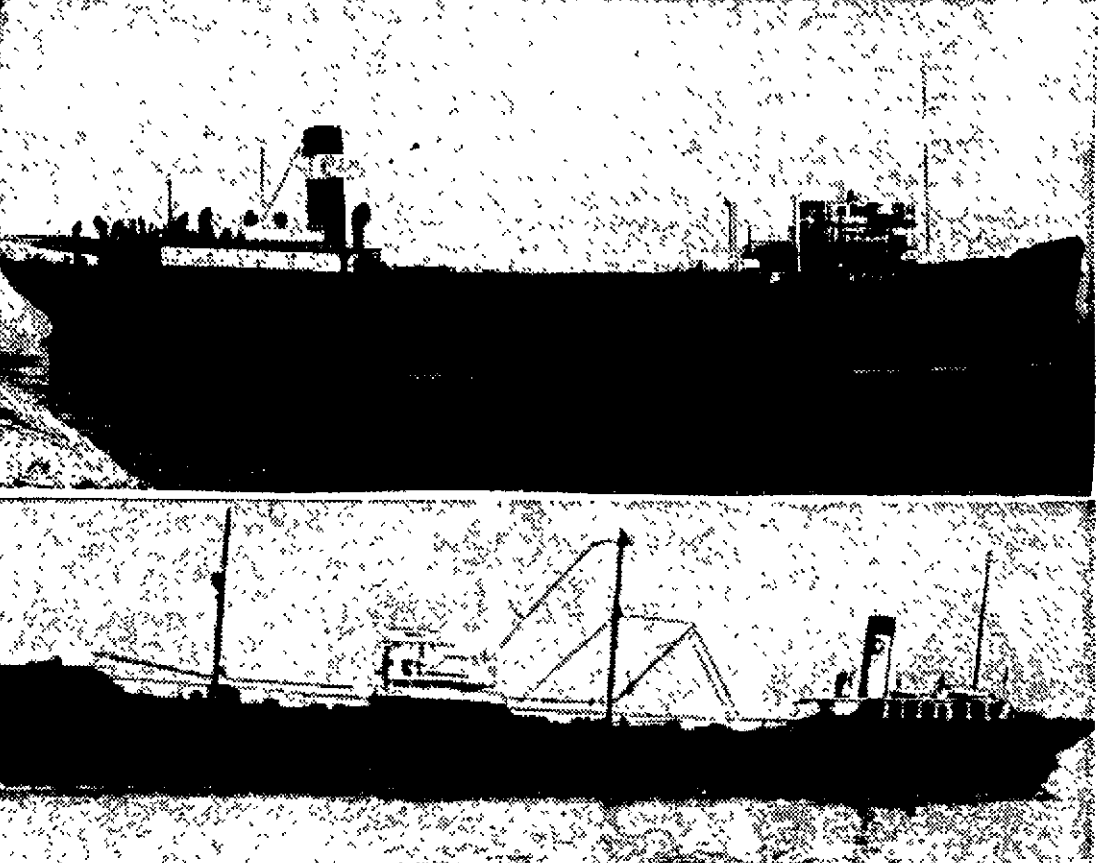

Without giving away any military secrets, we can tell of some of the things that are about to happen to Los Angeles' oil wells and airports and aviation factories.

The oil wells are liable to turn into forests. In any event the big tanks that the Japs undoubtedly have photographed from above will disappear—and new fake tanks will be built a couple of miles away. The idea, according to Banks, is not to make anything invisible, but to change it enough to confuse the enemy. Land marks, like oil tanks, must be moved.

Plans already are finished for turning some of the great airports into replicas of nearby subdivisions. This involves the putting in of fake roads—accomplished by sprinkling lime on the ground—the plowing of the earth between the runways, and the painting of the runways themselves with paint to match the ground.

Two U. S. Ships Attacked By Japanese Subs

These two U. S. ships have figured in recent attacks by Japanese submarines on American shipping off the Pacific coast. Above, the 6,771-ton oil tanker Emidio was torpedoed and her lifeboats shelled 200 miles north of San Francisco. Thirty survivors were picked up. Below, the American tanker Agawic attempted to ram an enemy submarine when its commander surfaced and tried to shell the U. S. ship. The undersea craft escaped, however.

Marion Councilman Ordained As Baptist Minister Recently

MARION—(AP)—It is Rev. Basil Williams to members of the Marion city council now because their fellow member from the city's third ward recently had been ordained as a minister in the Baptist denomination.

Mr. Williams, 30, has served the third ward in council for the last six years, and two days after his ordination announced his withdrawal as a candidate for re-election he won the nomination in the August primaries. For the last two years he has been the only Democrat in council.

After studying ten years at home and spending some time in residence at the Northern Baptist Theological seminary, Chicago, Mr. Williams was ordained in his home church—Fite building is more difficult because it casts strong shadows, easily visible from above.

"The usual method," said Banks, "is to build outriggers from the sides of the structure. That fixes the shadows. Then you can turn the roof into an orange grove, or a dump heap, or whatever."

PLAN EXAMS FOR WORKERS

Applicants For Training at Westinghouse Plant To Take Tests Dec. 30.

An aptitude and arithmetic examination to obtain men qualified for paid training at the Canton naval arsenal will be given Dec. 30 at 7 p. m. in the offices of the Ohio Employment service at 54-56 North Diamond street, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield employment service, announced today.

Conducted by Robert Browne, employment service executive, in charge of obtaining training school applicants, the examination is open to men between the ages of 18 and 30, with a minimum of eight years in school.

Applicants must not be subject to induction into the military services within a period of 60 to 90 days from assignment to paid training in Canton; must pass physical examinations and be able to give proof of their age and citizenship.

The Canton arsenal is operated by the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company. Last month a Westinghouse official said in Mansfield that the plant was approximately 15 per cent in production and would employ 2,000 machine operators when in complete production.

Men passing the examination Dec. 30 and accepted for training by Westinghouse will be paid approximately $18 per week while in training at Canton.

Carol Singing And Movies To Feature O.S.R. Christmas

A motion picture, special meal and carol singing will top Christmas observances at the Ohio State Reformatory, Arthur L. Glatke, superintendent, said today.

Christmas evening after taps have been sounded for the day and lights dimmed in the cell blocks a 32-voice prison choir will sing carols from the guard room so that the music will carry through the entire cell block system.

Half of the inmates will attend a service in the institution chapel on Christmas morning which will be followed by a motion picture, probably "Pinocchio" by Walt Disney. The other half the prison will attend the same program in the afternoon.

Menu for the noon meal includes roast pork, dressing, sweet or Irish potatoes, creamed corn, celery, pickles, olives, mince pie and a choice of coffee, tea or milk.

During the day no work will be done in the prison shops and each inmate will be given a pound box of chocolates as a gift.

Jest 'Fore Christmas

Father calls me William, sister calls me Will.
Mother calls me Willie, but the fellers call me Bill!
Mighty glad I ain't a girl—rather be a boy.
Without them sashes, curls, an' things that's worn by Fauntleroy!
Love to chawnk green apples an' go swimmin' in the lake—
Hate to take the castor-ile they give for belly-ache!
'Most all the time, the whole year round, there ain't no flies on me,
But jest 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

Got a yellor dog named Sport, sick him on the cat;
First thing she knows she doesn't know where she is at!
Got a clipper sled, an' when us kids goes out to slide,
'Long comes the grocery cart, an' we all hook a ride!
But sometimes when the grocery man is worried an' cross,
he reaches at us with his whip, an' larrups up his hoss,
An' then I laff an' holler, "Oh, ye never teched me!"
But just 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

And then old Sport he hangs around, so solemn-like an' still,
His eyes they keep a-saying: "What the matter, little Bill?"
The old cat sneaks down off her perch an' wonders what's become
Of them two enemies of hern that used to make things hum!
But I am so perlit an' tend so earnestly to biz,
That mother says to father: "How improved our Willie is!"
But father, havin' been a boy hisself, suspicious me
When jest 'fore Christmas, I'm as good as I kin be!

For Christmas, with its lots an' lots of candies, cakes an' toys,
Was made, they say, for proper kids an' not for naughty boys;
So wash yer face an' bresh yer hair, an' mind yer p's an' q's,
An' don't bust out yer pantaloons, an' don't wear out yer shoes;
Say "Yessum" to the ladies, an' "Yessur" to the men,
An' when they's company, don't pass yer plate for pie again;
But, thinking of the things yer'd like to see upon that tree,
Jest 'fore Christmas be as good as yer kin be!

CHAPTER TWENTY
HOW THIRD WITCH WAS TRICKED

TWENTY miles from the border Carl and King Harald saw great, rolling clouds of smoke on the horizon. Ten miles from the border they could hear guns roar. Two miles from the border they found Carl's old man friend sitting by the road.

"Ho, there," shouted Carl. "What good luck! How did you get over here?"

"I thought you'd be coming along," said the old man. You and I know it was Santa, but Carl didn't know it yet. Santa had been talking with the people on the neighboring farms, so he had news.

"No one seems to know why the men are fighting," said Santa, "but I found a very wise old grandmother in the house with the blue chimney. Last night she saw a tiny witch asleep in one of her black poppies. Carl, this must be another witch that started the war."

"You're probably right. Let us go see the grandmother," said Carl.

So they went to the grandmother's farm. She gave them cold chicken and water-cress and milk for dinner and then they waited for nightfall.

The moon rose behind some cedar trees and Carl said to the grandmother, "Is there a river nearby?"

"Yes, indeed," she said. "Down at the end of the garden. I'll show you." They walked through rows of flowers, down a hill, to the banks of a wide river.

"Fine," said Carl. "Now help me. I want to dig up that row of black poppies near the house, and replant them down the path we've walked. Do you think I can?"

"Why, yes," said the grandmother. So they worked very hard in the moonlight: Santa, Carl, King Harald, and the grandmother. Carl dug great, square chunks of earth around the roots of the poppies, and Santa and the King carried them carefully down the path to the river and re-set them.

When they had reached the last poppy, Carl said, "This we'll save." He went quickly down the path and gently snapped the head of each poppy so that it fell over but clung to the stem. The grandmother tittered as she watched.

He snapped the poppy's stem.

She said to Santa, "I see. No witch can sleep in a poppy that's hanging upside down."

Then Carl strode back to the poppy he had saved. He dug that up very carefully and said, "Now follow me to the river." They did.

At the river bank Carl piled a dozen thick, green lily pads together until they looked like a green floor. Then he said, "Please hide in the bushes and keep very quiet." He waded out into the water carrying the big black poppy he had saved. Then he ducked his head under water until all Santa and King Harald and the grandmother could see was the big, black poppy sticking above the water, and the end of a big, yellow straw.

"Carl is breathing through that straw," whispered the King. "Now let's hide." They hid that way for half an hour. Then there was a chattering sound in the garden. It was the little witch. She was very angry, and talking to herself. She tried every black poppy as she found it. But she couldn't sleep in any of them because their heads all hung over.

Then she saw the last poppy. She flew to it, stepped into the cup, twittering agreeably to herself, and curled up around the stem and went to sleep.

Then Carl's head appeared above the water. He snapped the poppy's stem. The little witch dumped out on a lily pad, and then Carl snapped the lily's stem. The current of the river slowly moved the lily pad out into mid-stream. The little witch stood up and screamed. But she floated out of sight, and no one knows what became of her.

PREPARE TO DEDICATE NEW Y AT BUCYRUS

New $18,000 Building To Be Officially Opened Sunday.

BUCYRUS—Dedication services for the Y. M. C. A. which has been in the stages of remodeling since spring, will be held Sunday afternoon.

Speaker for the program has not been announced. The building, one of the most modern of its kind in central Ohio, was made possible through a donation of $18,000 by John Q. Snunk, Bucyrus manufacturer and philanthropist.

The building, a two story brick structure, was badly damaged by fire in February.

In the Christmas setting at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday, Miss Christine Sherer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sherer, Tiffin road, became the bride of Samuel Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cook, of east of Bucyrus. The Rev. H. A. Blum, pastor of the church, officiated for the service which was read before an altar banked with decorated fir trees.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and her sister, Mrs. Elsie Angene, attended her as matron of honor. Another sister, Margaret, and Miss Marvel Cook, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Emory Cook served his brother as best man.

The couple will live in Marion where Mrs. Cook is employed as Marion county home demonstration agent. Mr. Cook is coach at North Robinson high school.

Miss Evelyn Lea and Melvin Kiess, who are employed in the ordinance department in Washington, D. C., returned to Bucyrus to exchange nuptial vows in Epworth Methodist church Sunday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Lea, Wyandot road and Mr. Kiess is the son of Mrs. Ruby Gunther, east of Bucyrus. Miss Marjorie Lea, a sister, was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Evelyn Stuck and Betty Allen, both fellow employees in Washington, D. C. Mr. Kiess was served by Frederick Scheiber. Seventy guests were received at a reception at the Lea home following the ceremony.

The couple left for Chicago for a wedding trip. They will live in Washington.

Mrs. Kiess is a graduate of Bucyrus high school with the class of 1938 and of Tiffin Business university. Mr. Kiess is a graduate of Martel high school of 1934.

TELLS ROTARY ABOUT INDIA

Galion Workman's Impressions Presented To Galion Group By Paper.

GALION—An interesting paper written by Harold Clements of Galion, North Electric Manufacturing company engineer, who during the 1920's was in India for four years working for the company, was read at the meeting of the Galion Rotary club Monday night, by a fellow workman, Howard Duhamel.

Impressions of India were recorded in the paper. Clements was of the opinion that India will always be dominated by an external power. Britain has exploited India, he wrote, but only in the sense that a scientific farmer exploits his land. Regarding political status of the country, there are contradictions. Clements stated. Some groups in the country want complete independence, while others want considerable freedom, but some control by Great Britain. The paper also explained social and religious differences in India. Since the first World war, there has been a growing disrespect for England among the Hindus, due to action of some British officers, and also to American movies. The movies, Clements wrote, according to the Hindu, means a portrayal of the average white man's life.

One new member, Franklin Craun, was welcomed into the club.

ART DIRECTORS OFFER HELP IN 'HIDING' CITY

Would Camouflage Oil Wells as Forests and 'Move' Vital Airports.

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD—The boys who've spent their lives fooling the cash customers—we're talking about the motion picture art directors—offered the government some help today on fooling those Japs.

The art directors are the babies who make grass grow on hardwood floors, plant fields of pumpkins on walls, build their own skies, clouds included, and otherwise make things seem what they're not.

They're now in the midst of making a deal with the camouflage unit of the army, 604th engineers, to turn Los Angeles and strategic environs into dump heaps, back yards and no telling what else, when viewed from above.

"What got us to thinking about it," reported Lionel Banks, the Columbia studios chief, "was the fact that one of our $1,000 a week technicians had been given a job as an air raid warden, standing on a hill top with a flash light.

"Anybody with good eyes can scan the skies for planes. But not everybody knows about camouflage. The camouflage is our business. It is difficult to fool a movie camera, but when you can actually do that, then you shouldn't have much trouble fooling oriental aviators."

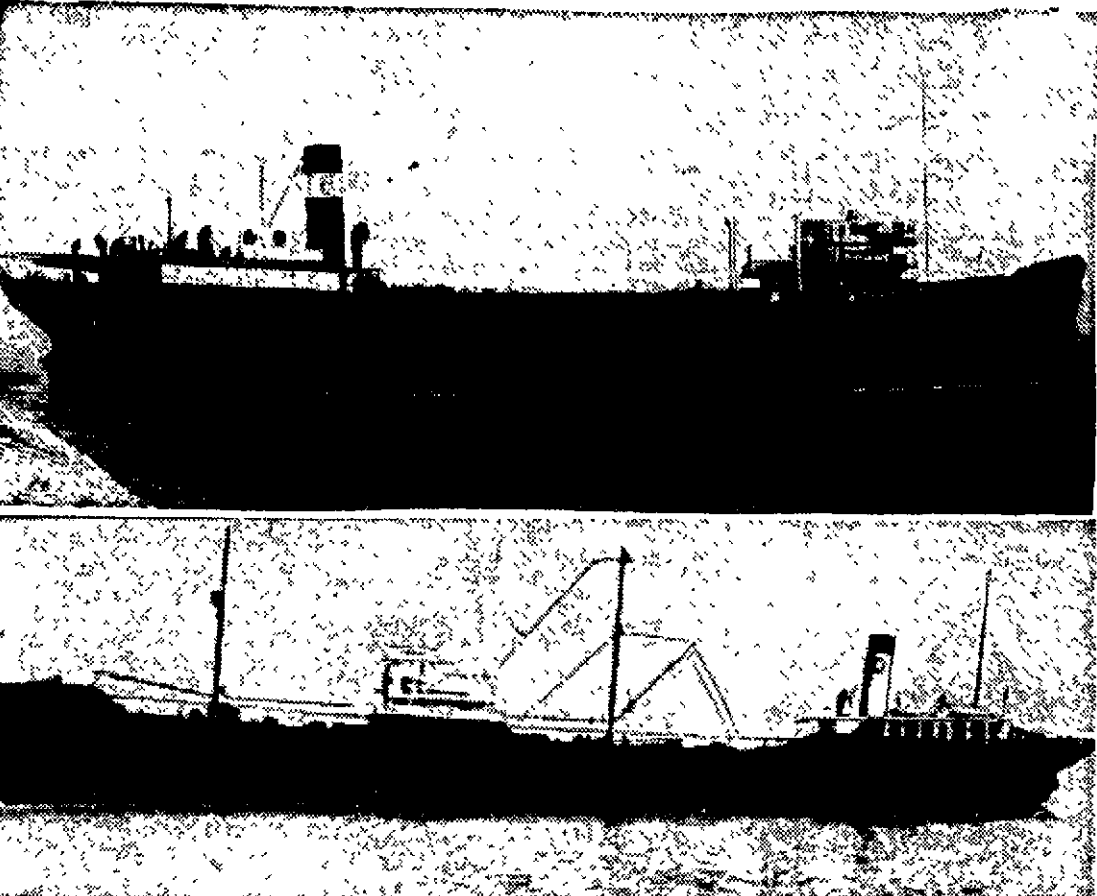

Without giving away any military secrets, we can tell of some of the things that are about to happen to Los Angeles' oil wells and airports and aviation factories.

The oil wells are liable to turn into forests. In any event the big tanks that the Japs undoubtedly have photographed from above will disappear—and new fake tanks will be built a couple of miles away. The idea, according to Banks, is not to make anything invisible, but to change it enough to confuse the enemy. Land marks, like oil tanks, must be moved.

Plans already are finished for turning some of the great airports into replicas of nearby subdivisions. This involves the putting in of fake roads—accomplished by sprinkling lime on the ground—the plowing of the earth between the runways, and the painting of the runways themselves with paint to match the ground.

Camouflaging a big factory

Two U. S. Ships Attacked By Japanese Subs

These two U. S. ships have figured in recent attacks by Japanese submarines on American shipping off the Pacific coast. Above, the 6,771-ton oil tanker Emidio was torpedoed and her lifeboats shelled 200 miles north of San Francisco. Thirty survivors were picked up. Below, the American tanker Agawworld attempted to ram an enemy submarine when its commander surfaced and tried to shell the U. S. ship. The undersea craft escaped, however.

Marion Councilman Ordained As Baptist Minister Recently

MARION—(AP)—It is Rev. Basil Williams to members of the Marion city council now because their fellow member from the city's third ward recently had been ordained as a minister in the Baptist denomination.

Mr. Williams, 30, has served the third ward in council for the last six years, and two days after his ordination announced his withdrawal as a candidate for re-election he won the nomination in the August primaries. For the last two years he has been the only Democrat in council.

After studying ten years at home and spending some time in residence at the Northern Baptist Theological seminary, Chicago, Mr. Williams was ordained in his home church—Fife building is more difficult because it casts strong shadows, easily visible from above.

"The usual method," said Banks, "is to build outcrops from the sides of the structure. That fixes the shadows. Then you can turn the roof into an orange grove, or a dump heap, or whatever."

As much at home in the pulpit as he is in the council chamber Mr. Williams has served the LaRue Baptist church, near here, for the last seven years as a supply pastor. He expects to continue serving the LaRue church.

Mr. Williams started his studies shortly after graduating from Harding high school here. Besides his regular Sunday and mid-week services at the LaRue church he has been employed in a food market here.

He is married and has a son, Jack, 5.

So they went to the grandmother's farm. She gave them cold chicken and water-cress and milk for dinner and then they waited for nightfall.

The moon rose behind some cedar trees and Carl said to the grandmother, "Is there a river nearby?"

So they worked very hard in the moonlight: Santa, Carl, King Harald, and the grandmother. Carl dug great, square chunks of earth around the roots of the poppies, and Santa and the King carried them carefully down the path to the river and re-set them.

He snapped the poppy's stem.

She said to Santa, "I see No witch can sleep in a poppy that's hanging upside down."

Then Carl strode back to the poppy he had saved. He dug that up very carefully and said, "Now follow me to the river."

They did.

At the river bank Carl piled a dozen thick, green lily pads together until they looked like a green floor. Then he said, "Please hide in the bushes and keep very quiet."

He waded out into the water carrying the big black poppy he had saved. Then he ducked his head under water until all Santa and King Harald and the grandmother could see was the big black poppy sticking above the water, and the end of a big, yellow straw.

Applicants For Training at Westinghouse Plant To Take Tests Dec. 30.

An aptitude and arithmetic examination to obtain men qualified for paid training at the Canton naval arsenal will be given Dec. 30 at 7 p. m. in the offices of the Ohio Employment service at 54-56 North Diamond street, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield employment service, announced today.

Conducted by Robert Browne, employment service executive, in charge of obtaining training school applicants, the examination is open to men between the ages of 18 and 30, with a minimum of eight years in school.

Applicants must not be subject to induction into the military services within a period of 60 to 90 days from assignment to paid training in Canton; must pass physical examinations and be able to give proof of their age and citizenship.

The Canton arsenal is operated by the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company. Last month a Westinghouse official said in Mansfield that the plant was approximately 15 per cent in production and would employ 2,000 machine operators when in complete production.

Men passing the examination Dec. 30 and accepted for training by Westinghouse will be paid approximately $18 per week while in training at Canton.

Carol Singing And Movies To Feature O.S.R. Christmas

A motion picture, special meal and carol singing will top Christmas observances at the Ohio State Reformatory, Arthur L. Glatke, superintendent, said today.

Christmas evening after taps have been sounded for the day and lights dimmed in the cell blocks a 32-voice prison choir will sing carols from the guard room so that the music will carry through the entire cell block system.

Half of the inmates will attend a service in the institution chapel on Christmas morning which will be followed by a motion picture, probably "Pinocchio" by Walt Disney. The other half the prison will attend the same program in the afternoon.

Menu for the noon meal includes roast pork, dressing, sweet or Irish potatoes, creamed corn, celery, pickles, olives, mince pie and a choice of coffee, tea or milk.

During the day no work will be done in the prison shops and each inmate will be given a pound box of chocolates as a gift.

WHATTA MASCOT

DENVER—(AP)—Stripey, a reluctant skunk, has been adopted as mascot by the Denver chapter of the American Red Cross.

The deodorized little animal lives at the chapter house and enjoys all the privileges of a member. However, it spends most of the time sleeping.

Members say he became shy after several of the women workers shrieked when they first saw the black-and-white little fellow.

DISCOVER NEST

DUBLIN, N. H.—(AP)—Naturalists had the time of their lives when a goshawk was discovered nesting here.

The Smithsonian Institute sent a delegation of experts to observe the bird's nesting habits because it was the first time a goshawk was known to have raised a family outside the Arctic regions.

Jest 'Fore Christmas

Father calls me William, sister calls me Will,
Mother calls me Willie, but the fellers call me Bill!
Mighty glad I ain't a girl—ruther be a boy.
Without them sashes, curls, an' things that's worn by Fauntleroy!
Love to chawnk green apples an' go swimmin' in the lake—
Hate to take the castor-ile they give for belly-ache!
'Most all the time, the whole year round, there ain't no flies on me,
But jest 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

Got a yeller dog named Sport, sick him on the cat;
First thing she knows she doesn't know where she is at!
Got a clipper sled, an' when us kids goes out to slide,
'Long comes the grocery cart, an' we all hook a ride!
But sometimes when the grocery man is worried an' cross,
he reaches at us with his whip, an' larrups up his hoss,
An' then I laff an' holler, "Oh, ye never teched me!"
But just 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

And then old Sport he hangs around, so solemn-like an' still.
His eyes they keep a-saying: "What the matter, little Bill?"
The old cat sneaks down off her perch an' wonders what's become
Of them two enemies of hern that used to make things hum!
But I am so perlit an' tend so earnestly to biz,
That mother says to father: "How improved our Willie is!"
But father, havin' been a boy hisself, suspicions me
When jest 'fore Christmas, I'm as good as I kin be!

Gran'ma says she hopes that when I git to be a man,
I'll be a missionarer like her oldest brother, Dan,
As was et up by the cannibuls that lives in Ceylon's Isle,
Where every prospeck pleases, an' only man is vile!
But gran'ma she has never been to see a Wild West show,
Nor read the life of Daniel Boone, or else I guess she'd know
That Buff'lo Bill and cow-boys is good enough for me!
Excep' jest 'fore Christmas, when I'm good as I kin be!

For Christmas, with its lots an' lots of candies, cakes an' toys,
Was made, they say, for proper kids an' not for naughty boys;
So wash yer face an' bresh yer hair, an' mind yer p's an' q's,
An' don't bust out yer pantaloons, an' don't wear out yer shoes;
Say "Yessum" to the ladies, an' "Yessur" to the men,
An' when they's company, don't pass yer plate for pie again;
But, thinking of the things yer'd like to see upon that tree,
Jest 'fore Christmas be as good as yer kin be!

Brooklyn Boy Gets Freak Title

Muffed Third Pitch Voted Year's Zaniest Event.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK.—As evident as a Christmas necktie is the opinion of the nation's sports editors that Mickey Owen's miff of a third strike in the 1941 World series was the sports freak of the year.

Almost without exception the critics designated the Brooklyn catcher's failure to hold the ball as the year's zaniest—and, perhaps, most costly—sports boggle.

Had Owen captured Hugh Casey's low pitch the New Yorkers would have been retired and the Dodgers would have won, 4 to 3, as the incident happened in the ninth frame with two out. That would have leveled the series at two games each.

As it was, Tommy Henrich scampered safely to first base after swinging at the third strike, and opened the door through which the Yankees poured four unearned runs and a 7 to 4 triumph. That sent them ahead, three games to one, in the World series which they won the next day.

The series also produced other happenings which drew attention from the 86 writing writers. Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons, Dodger pitcher, getting knocked out by a blow on the knee gained mention, as did the Brooklyn reporter who was late to the fourth game of the World series because his wife needed hospitalization after being injured in a corner lot football game.

Virtually every baseball fan in the country would have paid to see the incident Roland Hughes of the Roanoke, Va., World-News voted as the best.

Umpire Guy Rhein of the Virginia league banished Lynchburg Manager Guy Lacy from a game. Then the Lynchburg players refused to continue and League President Ray Ryan stepped from the stands, banished the umpire and reinstated the manager. Judge W. G. Gramham still is investigating.

Bobby Yandell's tackle by mistake of Teammate Ray Poole, who was in the clear for a probable touchdown, won most votes among the football teams. A Poole touchdown would have given Mississippi six, possibly seven, points. As it was, Mississippi State triumphed, 6 to 0, and won the Southeastern conference title.

Other freak gridiron items were the Ohio State-Northwestern fifth game controversy; Minnesota's quick lineup while Bill Sweigert argued with Northwestern players and a teammate raced for the game-winning touchdown and Syracuse's coy center who turned his back on his opponents all season.

The bout Billy Soose, ex-midweight king, lost but didn't lose was the boxing novelty. Soose, in his California brawl with Cefirino Garcia, suffered a severe cut over his right eye. The referee, instead of naming Garcia the victor by a technical knockout, stopped the bout and declared it a draw, a power granted him by the California commission.

Other novelties were: The referee in the South Carolina-Wake Forest football game losing his whistle and before a play could be stopped the gamecock ball carrier was thrown for an additional nine yard loss; 28 Portsmouth, O., Catholic high players overcome by gas between halves of their game with Ironton St. Joseph, and Bud Ward winning the U. S. amateur golf crown despite the Omaha gallery.

Perhaps most typically American of the year's supply of freak sports incidents was the one reported from Indiana, Miss., where Dr. Paul Woodward, a dentist, began preparing for his next patient, only to discover it was his son.

Young Woodward, a sandlot football player, lost three teeth making a "high" tackle on William Pitts. Pitts was put to bed—after a doctor pried two of the molars from his scalp.

Charles Mill Cage Team Seeks Games

Members of the Charles Mill NYA resident center have organized a basketball team and are seeking games with other teams in the Mansfield area. Hal E. Effort, center recreational supervisor, announced today.

All of the players on the team are of high school age and can play on their home floor at the center on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Although the center is in its first season of sports activity, Effort claims the players have shown enough ability to give competition to other teams in the area.

Team managers interested in signing for a game with the center may do so by contacting Effort, Charles Mill NYA resident center, Mansfield.

RESIGNATION OF YALE GRID COACH UNEXPECTED

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(UP)—Speculation on Yale's new head football coach vivid with campus reports of a change in athletic policy today as director of athletics Ogden Miller announced that the resignation of Dr. Emerson (Spike) Nelson would not affect the continuation of sports at the university.

Nelson, whose 1941 Yale team won only one game while losing seven, was the university's first non-graduate head football coach and his announcement last night that he intends to enter the procurement division of the army engineer corps came as a surprise.

Doolittle Gets 706 Club Score

Sets Season's Record For Kegling League.

Harold Doolittle hit a hot streak in the Club Kegling league last night at Colony to lead the loop with a rousing 706 total on games of 242-223-241.

Mansfield Savings bank needed Doolittle's big series to offset the 686 rolled by Art Hillborn and win a 2-1 victory over Optimists which sent them into a second place tie with their opponents. Hillborn rolled 216-285-215.

Doolittle's 706 set a new season's record for the league, erasing the 691 by which Thull had held top honors. Whitcomb had high game last night with 247, Mansfield Savings came within three pins of the league record with 1008, and also had high total of 2809.

WHELCHER APPOINTED NEW NAVY GRID COACH

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(INS)—Comdr. John E. Welch, U. S. N., of Washington, today was the newly-appointed head football coach at the naval academy, succeeding Maj. Emery S. (Swede) Larson, who held the post since 1938.

Larson will report to the naval war college, Newport, R. I., next month.

Joe Sauer Takes Fracas

Friendly House Boxers Cop Three of Four Bouts.

Mansfield boxers from Friendly House took three out of the four fights they entered last night in Loudonville with Joe Sauer, Mansfield 160-pounder, taking a five-round main event decision from Paul Hoffman, 165-pound ex-sailor from Loudonville.

Mike Sauer pounded Floyd Kemp of Loudonville through the ropes in the first round and in the second downed him for the count in their scheduled three round go.

Len Waddell, 131-pound Mansfielder, stopped Bob Workman, 135-pound Ashlander, in the second round after clipping him for a four and a nine count before the final knockout.

Only Mansfielder to lose was Phil Stehle, 140-pounds, who was counted out in the second round of a fight with Dan Arnhold of Loudonville.

In other fights of the evening Paul Smith, Loudonville, took a decision from Russ Horn, also of Loudonville; Jack Kopper, Jelloway, took a close decision from Bob Woodruff, Loudonville; Bob Mizer, Loudonville, decisioned Kopper, Jelloway; and Ken Curran counted a decision from his fellow Loudonville resident, Owen Ostrader.

Coaching Twins Tangle Again

SHELBY.—Regular practice drills are being held during the Shelby vacation period by the Shelby Whippets. Two cage games are scheduled during the holidays.

The Whippets will motor to Willard Friday night for the annual battle between the teams coached by Ohio's only twin high school coaches, Bill Query of Shelby and Dave Query of Willard.

BILLIARD CHAMPIONS GET DEFENSE BONDS

CHICAGO.—(INS)—Winners in the 1942 world's three-cushion billiard championship, opening in Chicago January 9, will be paid in defense bonds, Charles C. Peterson, tournament director, announced today.

Peterson said the $10,750 in tournament prize would be increased to $14,504.25 if the players hold the bonds until maturity.

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Louise made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No endorser. Friends or relatives are not told. No credit check. No use of sick leave or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $300 or less, 2.5% monthly on any remainder. The same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

WESTINGHOUSE CONTINUES TO DRAW SUPPORT

Stock Market Repeats Early Rallying Efforts of Preceding Day.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market today duplicated its early rallying tendencies of yesterday but with hardly as much vigor.

Heavy tax selling persisted, especially in low-priced stocks which showed wide percentage losses from their year's tops.

Accorded moderate support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, American Smelting, Westinghouse and General Electric.

Inclined to slip further were American Telephone, Du Pont, and U. S. Gypsum.

Market students noted with some satisfaction the federal reserve summary disclosing loans to commerce, industry and agriculture by member banks in 101 cities for the week ended Dec. 17 increased $94,000,000. The jump was attributed mainly to the expanding arms program.

Not so pleasing to financial analysts was the warning of the national industrial conference board that a general labor shortage was imminent.
